GRINS AT DEATH

When this remarkable picture was taken, Jack Sullivan, 23, had 10 seconds to live. He's shown strapped to a chair in the lethal gas chamber at Arizona State Penitentiary, Florence, just before cyanide gas ended his life. He was convicted of slaying a railroad policeman.

5 NEAR DEATH AS CAR STALLS IN SAND WASH

MESA, Ariz., May 20.—(UP)—Mrs. Art Voorhees and her five children were recovering today from a narrow brush with death from thirst on the desert near Apache Junction, where their automobile stalled in a sand wash.

Marooned more than 10 hours without food or water, they were rescued by Police Chief Roy Merrill and four other Mesa men after Voorhees, a Mesa service station attendant, walked seven hours across the blistering sands to reach a telephone at Apache Junction and report their plight.

The car became bogged in the sand miles from water or a highway, when Voorhees drove into the desert to salvage parts of frame towers built by the government during an erosion survey.

The eldest of the Voorhees children is five years old, and the youngest, an infant.

BRITISH PLEA FOR MACKAY IS FAILURE

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., May 20.—(UP)—Preparations to hang Alexander Mackay and Joe Kristy Friday went forward today despite intercession of the British government in behalf of Mackay, British subject.

The two men are under death sentence for kidnapping members of the California state prison board in an abortive prison break in January, 1935.

Hopes of Mackay and Kristy for a possible reprieve faded, following the state supreme court's third refusal to intervene in their behalf.

The state high court, after a lengthy conference, rejected correspondence of the British government arguing that Mackay should not be subjected to the death penalty because he inflicted no bodily harm on the victims of the kidnapping.

Hoover Coy Over Campaign Plans

LOS ANGELES, May 20.—(UP)—Herbert Hoover declined to state today whether he would permit the Republican convention to draft him as a presidential candidate.

"I have nothing to say as to that," said the former president as he stepped off the Union Pacific's stream-lined train.

Hoover flatly refused to discuss politics. He said he would spend the day here and leave tonight for Palo Alto.

Townsend Hints Lowering Pension Age Limit

AGREES TAX HEAVIEST ON POOR PEOPLE

Inquiry Reveals Coalition With Coughlin Forces Considered in 1935

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(UP)—A coalition of Townsend forces with those of Father Charles E. Coughlin and a descent of 1,000,000 aged upon Washington in a spectacular pension demand were proposed by Townsend leaders in 1935, house inquiry revealed today.

At the same time Dr. Francis E. Townsend, originator of the pension scheme, told the committee he would favor lowering the age limit of his pensions proposal from 60 to 40 or 50 years "if this army of unemployed grows."

He also agreed, under sharp examination, that the transaction tax proposed to raise the estimated $24,000,000 required annually for the pensions would be "a pyramid, universal sales tax" falling heaviest upon the poor.

Tells of Follies Girls

James R. Sullivan, house Townsend committee counsel, inquired into charges that "Follies beauties and cabaret sinners" participated in a transcontinental Townsend motor caravan.

Dr. Townsend denied knowledge of any such participation.

He responded that he "didn't know" when asked by Sullivan whether Gomer Smith, Townsend senatorial candidate in Oklahoma, "spent $2,100 of old age revolving pensions funds to feed the caravan and distribute firewater to the Indians."

The Coughlin coalition proposal was disclosed as suggestions were revealed that the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, spellbinder of the late Huey Long forces, had conferred with Townsend.

The possibility was indicated that Smith might be seeking joint action by Townsendsites, Coughlin followers and the remnants of Long's share-the-wealth faction.

The earlier Coughlin suggestion was revealed in a letter by Frank Peterson, former Townsend publicity counsel, to Dr. Frank Dyer, west coast Townsend official.

Peterson, writing in January, 1935, said he expected "to have Dr. Townsend and Father Coughlin get together in a short time."

'SPIRIT PHOTO' OF BRUNO PUBLISHED

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 20.—(UP)—Diario Noite, daily newspaper, published a four column photograph last night of "Bruno Richard Hauptmann's spirit" and said the spirit had "confessed" to an unnamed medium that he kidnapped Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

The spirit said, according to the medium, that he committed the crime while under a hypnotic influence and that he became conscious of it only after death.

Diario Noite's "photograph" of the "spirit," which the newspaper said was taken by "a special process," bore no resemblance to Hauptmann.

LONDON VICTOR OVER BORAH IN JERSEY VOTING

(By United Press)
GOV. ALF LONDON of Kansas emerged today from his latest test of pre-convention Republican sentiment with a long lead over Sen. William E. Borah in the New Jersey primaries.

Landon's lead over Borah was better than four to one in the preference poll and he was assured the convention votes of the New Jersey Republican delegation.

Gov. Harold G. Hoffman also scored a victory in the New Jersey vote. He was leading the Republican delegates-at-large slate despite a bitter fight against him based on his intervention in the Lindbergh kidnap case.

Scattered reports indicated a written vote for President Roosevelt topped that cast for Col. Henry Breckenridge, sole Democratic preference primary entry. Roosevelt was assured of New Jersey's convention delegates.

The president also received the unanimous support of the Montana delegation to the Democratic national convention. Republican delegates were unimpaired.

Michigan Democrats met in convention today. National Democratic Chairman James A. Farley will address the gathering tonight in a plea for party harmony. The convention was expected to air several bitter intra-party disputes.

The day also brought a cross-fire of Republican and Democratic answers to political barages laid down by Farley and Republican Chairman Henry P. Fletcher yesterday.

Sen. Jesse H. Metcalf, R., R. I., answered Farley's Providence, R. I., prediction of President Roosevelt's re-election with a charge

FULDA 'WEREWOLF' WILL DIE FRIDAY

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 20.—(UP)—Execution of Earl (Bud) Kimball, "Werewolf of Fulda," on the gallows of Folsom prison Friday appeared assured today after Gov. Frank F. Merriam indicated he would not interfere in the carrying out of the death sentence.

A final appeal to the governor for clemency on the ground the 21-year-old youth was insane brought the answer that Kimball had been given a fair trial on the ground of insanity and unless the guardian of Folsom declared him insane there was no legal method by which the execution could be delayed.

Kimball was convicted of the slaying of James C. Kennett, retired Chicago contractor whose body was found in an abandoned mine shaft near Emigrant Gap last August.

'Sophs' Pick Ten Most Intelligent Screen Actresses

HOLLYWOOD, May 20.—(UP)—Sophomore psychology students of the University of Southern California today picked 10 actresses, ranging from Mary Pickford to Grace Allen, as the "most intelligent in Hollywood."

Besides Miss Pickford and Miss Allen, the "bright" stars are Norma Shearer, Ann Harding, Irene Dunne, Claudette Colbert, Grace Moore, Bette Davis, Ruth Chatterton and Jeanette MacDonald.

The students, members of Dr. John W. Todd's class, said their choice was based entirely upon their impressions of the actresses' screen appearances.

500 BOYS CAN'T BE WRONG!

AGED MOTHER OF PRESIDENT TO MURDER TO HURT IN FALL

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(UP)—Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, 82-year-old mother of the president, is suffering from a cracked bone in her hip, it was revealed at the White House today.

President Roosevelt did not learn that his mother had fallen last Wednesday while visiting her great-grandchildren in New York City until he asked her in Hyde Park how she was feeling during a telephone conversation.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she was "slightly handicapped." When pressed by the chief executive, she said she had tripped and fallen over a doorstep while visiting sister and Bessie Dail, her great grandchildren.

The president urged her to call a doctor and an examination revealed an impacted hip and cracked bone.

Mrs. Roosevelt will be confined to bed for at least two weeks and the president plans to leave Washington Friday night for Hyde Park to stay with her over the weekend, leaving Monday night for Washington.

FILM STAR'S MATE KILLED IN CRASH

BATON ROUGE, La., May 20.—One of two charred bodies found near the wreckage of an airplane near Harelson, La., last night was identified today as that of Harry P. Williams, 46, member of one of the richest families in the south and husband of Marguerite Clark, star of the silent films.

The other victim was John D. Worthen, 25, his pilot.

The plane, a lavish five place passenger ship built expressly for Williams, president of the Wedell Williams Air Service Corp., crashed in flames shortly after Williams and Worthen, both of New Orleans, left Baton Rouge airport for Patterson, La., where Williams has a summer home and his airplane factory.

Russian Clinics Use Hypnosis To Relieve Pain Of Childbirth

MOSCOW, May 20.—(UP)—A painless or semi-painless childbirth, Moscow university, one of its most successful practitioners, said his method, outgrowth of 11 years of psychiatric study, is simple. Any physician can employ it, he said.

Most of his cases are those of women who because of their physical condition cannot safely be given ordinary medical treatment. He has delivered 90 children by the use of hypnosis since November.

Of these 90, 41 mothers had preliminary hypnosis sessions. Fifty-five per cent of the 90 delivered entirely without pain, 33 per cent

The medical methods are familiar to physicians throughout the world. Use of hypnosis, however, is an innovation except for isolated experiments. Dr. Vassily Zdravov-

Revenue Cut Is Seen In Levy Change

Showdown is Scheduled on Principle of Proposed Measure

WASHINGTON, May 20.—(UP)—The senate finance committee today accepted a modified version of the administration's windfall tax on "unjust enrichment" of processors and prepared for a possible showdown this afternoon on the principles of the proposed tax on undivided corporate profits.

The modification of the windfall tax was believed likely to reduce considerably its revenue, originally estimated at $100,000,000. However, the 30 per cent levy was retained and experts declined to estimate the amount by which the total revenue might be cut.

The amendments grant exemptions to certain processors who contended before the committee that they would be unfairly treated by the windfall provisions as passed by the house.

Administration Simplified

The changes simplified administration of the tax.

Chief changes:

Permission for a processor who contends that he did not pass on the now invalidated AAA processing taxes (which the windfall levy is designed to recover) to figure his margin of profit on the average price of the commodity for an entire year rather than on each transaction. The windfall tax will be reckoned on the margin of profit as compared to the average over a six year period.

Allowance of offset against the windfall taxes for losses suffered by the processor on the commodity in question over the entire taxable year. If the processor suffered a net loss for the year he would not be required to pay the windfall tax even if he admittedly passed on part or all of the processing taxes.

The question of whether the processor passed on the processing tax will be computed on the basis of his profit margin over a six-year period, starting with 1927, instead of a five-year period as in the house bill.

The date of March 5, 1935, set in the house bill as the limit for deducting from income subject to the windfall tax any rebates to purchasers, was changed to 30 days after passage of the tax bill, whether or not the processor had a contract for such rebates. In addition, a later date would be permitted, if he had a contract in effect on March 3.

ROOSEVELT PLANS CALIFORNIA TRIP

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—(UP)—President Franklin D. Roosevelt will arrive here sometime in August for an extended tour of the state, local Democratic party leaders said today.

The Democrats, who said they received this information from sources close to the White House, said Roosevelt probably would appear at several functions in San Francisco and undoubtedly would make a number of speeches.

All of the state's 20 members of the lower house of congress and 109 members of the legislature face the voters at the primaries, August 25, and Democratic members believe the presence of Roosevelt here will be a distinct aid to them.

NAZI PLOT NIPPED BY POLISH AGENTS

WARSAW, May 20.—(UP)—Poland's new government today exposed an alleged Nazi plot to separate Upper Silesia from Poland and join it to Germany.

The cabinet ordered that 118 members of the Nazi party in Upper Silesia, known as the National Socialist German Workers movement, be tried for conspiring to execute the plot.

The defendants were arrested in connection with the military activities of their leader, Paul Maniura, who hanged himself recently. Investigation by government agents revealed Maniura's followers had plotted to separate Upper Silesia from Poland and join it to Germany through a revolt planned in Upper Silesia for 1937. They face death sentences or life imprisonment.

Mother of Child Star Wins Tilt

LOS ANGELES, May 20.—(UP)—Freddie Bartholomew's mother won a preliminary victory in her fight for custody of the 12-year-old film star today when Superior Judge Harry Archibald denied a motion to dismiss her suit.

Dismissal was sought by attorneys for Miss Myllicent Bartholomew, the boy's aunt, and Cecil Llewellyn Bartholomew of London, his father. They oppose a petition brought by the mother, Mrs. Lillian Bartholomew, to wrest custody of Freddie from the aunt.

BARBECUE WILL BE SERVED AT BOWL JUNE 3RD

Plans for a mammoth lawn party and barbecue in the Municipal Bowl the night of June 3 as the people of Santa Ana mark "fifty years of progress" in a jubilee celebration, were being completed today through cooperation of city officials and local service clubs.

Preliminary arrangements were made yesterday afternoon at a meeting in James' cafe in which Rod Bacon and Phil Brown were jointly named as the chief Pooh-bahs of the arrangements committee. It is planned to serve 2000 persons at the barbecue following which the several service clubs will stage entertainment acts with the inimitable Frank Drumm as master of ceremonies. According to the committee, every "old timer" in Santa Ana will be especially invited to the event which marks Santa Ana's fiftieth birthday and will be given a free ticket to the barbecue feast. All service clubs will be asked to forego their usual luncheon meetings just prior to the barbecue and to use the luncheon money in providing special entertainment, since the city is making provisions to pay the cost of the barbecue.

Give Away Tickets
At a time and place (probably the city hall), to be named later, 1000 tickets to the barbecue will be distributed free to the general public, according to Bacon, who added, "as long as the tickets last." The remaining tickets will go to service club members who take part in the program, and their families, and to Santa Ana's "old timers."

"The committee wants it made known that everybody is invited to attend the jubilee show which is to follow the barbecue, even though they do not attend the barbecue, itself," Bacon said today. "It is expected that each service club will have a most entertaining feature to present and the stands at the bowl should be filled to capacity. We've taken out insurance with Lloyd's, or so I hear, that the evening will be perfect. The calendar says it's going to have a full moon and the weather man is optimistic." Then Bacon added that if anyone questions the insurance with Lloyd's, "just tell him we're referring to Lloyd Banks, city auditor, or some one of the numerous Lloyd's hereabouts, and not the English insurance house."

At the meeting yesterday were Dr. Melbourne Mabee, general jubilee chairman; Mayor Fred C. Rowland, who is honorary chairman; Councilmen William Penn and Ernest Layton, and Bacon and Brown. They were named by the city council Monday night as the city's representative to cooperate with the service clubs in furtherance of plans. The mayor yesterday announced the general committee to assist Dr. Mabee, Bacon and Brown, as the heads of Santa Ana's service clubs. Dr. Mabee is president of Kiwanis; the others are C. W. Harrison, Lions; Stanley Goode, Rotary; John Lutz, 20-30; Mrs. Fred C. Rowland, Ebels; Mrs. E. M. Waycott, Woman's club; Commander Allison Homer, American Legion, and Miss Lorraine French, Business, Professional Women's.

The jubilee program is tentatively arranged as follows: bowl doors open at 5 p. m., June 3; barbecue dinner served at 6 p. m.; jubilee show, with Frank Drumm before the microphone, 7:30 p. m.

At Least 60% One Certain Food Daily Helps Prevent Ravages Which Faulty Feeding Can Cause

THOUSANDS of dogs here get foods that actually endanger their health. Table left-overs, cheap canned rations... poorly balanced foods! University scientists, who have made hundreds of dog food tests, find this true: No dog can develop hardy muscles, sound teeth and bones, a good coat on an inadequate diet.

Every dog must regularly get a balanced, nutritionally correct diet. A famous university authority says: "A readily available source of energy, and adequate minerals and protein should exist in a dog's food."

BALTO THE BASIC RATION
Made with whole, fresh-caught fish—Balto is a pure health food. Packed under supervision of State inspectors.

This food contains no scraps or waste products! Thousands of owners here find that it keeps their pets well, in top-notch condition always.

M.W.D. PROJECT OUTLINED TO COAST GROUP

Details of the Metropolitan Water district project were outlined for members of the Orange County Coast association at their monthly meeting of the Friday Afternoon clubhouse in Costa Mesa last night by M. W. Hawks, a member of the engineering staff of the district. The move was originally planned to supply domestic water to the population served, the speaker pointed out, and there is a question as to whether irrigation districts will be accepted into the organization. "Other cities will be accepted into the association on the same basis that the original 13 were admitted," he said, "but the directors of the MWD are not obliged to accept any new members."

The project, the largest single engineering feat in progress in the world at this time, will cost an estimated $220,000,000, and is at present about 40 per cent completed, it was stated. It is expected to be ready for use early in 1940. A reel of moving pictures depicting construction scenes along the line of the main aqueduct was shown by Vernon Glass.

Ray Overacker, of Huntington Beach, a member of a committee of five chosen from the Coast association membership to investigate matters relative to the establishment of a fishing preserve along the Orange county coast, said the fishing preserve measure may be placed on the November ballot, or a test case may be submitted to the supreme court.

Will Gallienne, secretary of the Huntington Beach chamber of commerce and head of the committee that directed the recent good will tour, gave a short report on the visit. Dr. C. G. Huston also spoke briefly. Harry Welsh, general secretary for the formal opening program of Newport harbor, gave a short talk, outlining the program for the opening festa and urging all to attend.

Upon invitation of Dan Mulheron, of San Clemente, for the association to hold its June meeting in San Clemente, it was voted to accept the invitation.

A dinner at which places were laid for 50 persons, preceded the program. The dinner was served by members of the Friday Afternoon club.

L. F. Kimmell, vice president of the association, was in charge of the meeting.

Clyde H. Ashen of Santa Ana was elected secretary of the Knights of Columbus for the state of California at the convention which closed in San Diego yesterday.

SANTA ANA IS SECRETARY OF STATE K. OF C.

Clyde H. Ashen of Santa Ana was elected state secretary of the Knights of Columbus at the annual convention held in San Diego, which closed yesterday. Ashen, who returned home today, was elected by a vote of 137 to 48 succeeding Chris McKeon of San Francisco.

Six Past Grand Knights of the Santa Ana lodge attended the state convocation which opened in the southern city last Saturday. They included Tom Giesler, Grand Knight, Charles W. Wolford, George Ravenscamp, George Nash, Dr. V. A. Rossiter and E. J. Vosskuhl. The above were all delegates but were accompanied by many members of the Santa Ana lodge.

Others elected to state offices were Joseph J. Rosborough of Oakland, state deputy; Harrison Fox, San Francisco, treasurer; Harry McDermott, Stockton, advocate; Matt Delanty, Bakersfield, warden.

Delegates to the supreme convention to be held in Toronto, Canada, in August, will be Dr. John A. Schwamm, Los Angeles; Wm. H. Sweigert, Edward Molkenbaur, Robert Roche, Dr. Joseph Hayes of San Francisco; Joseph Mitchell, Sacramento; C. P. Herbert, San Diego; Hon. Joseph Scott, Los Angeles and Joseph Enos, San Joaquin.

GRADE SCHOOL REOPENED

El Toro school pupils were back in class rooms today after a vacation caused by an epidemic of measles and whooping cough in the community. The school was closed May 11 by the El Toro board because approximately one-third of the students were absent.

Fifty-four pupils out of an enrollment of 65 were present at school today. A number of those absent are ill with whooping cough, it is reported.

The school was originally scheduled to close June 5.

WESTMINSTER BASEBALL PARK FIGHT RESUMED

Whether E. B. Finley, of Westminster, protests use of the county park there by the Westminster, who protests use of the permitted to file a "scattering" petition asking either an injunction, writ of mandate, writ of prohibition, or writ of certiorari, or should be forced to designate which method he is pursuing in seeking court relief, was debated throughout this morning's session in Superior Judge G. K. Scovel's court, as the Finley petition came up for hearing.

The argument centered upon a demurrer by District Attorney W. F. Menton and Deputy J. E. Walker, defending the county supervisors, which argued that no cause of action had been stated, for an injunction.

Attorney O. E. Farnham, of Long Beach, representing Finley, argued that his petition had stated a cause of action for either a writ of prohibition or writ of mandate, and disclaimed the request for an injunction. He argued that there were court decisions entitling him to whatever the state of facts showed in his petition.

The defense argued that he must make up his mind what he wanted, and specifically ask for it, so the defense could prepare to meet his demand.

Judge Scovel raised the point that none of the writs could be sought, except an injunction, where there was other remedy, and that in the present instance there was the remedy of injunction.

The court adjourned over the noon recess, while Farnham submitted authorities to support his contention.

During the course of argument, Attorney Farnham declared that Finley and his group, opposing use of the park by the baseball club, felt that the baseball club had overreached itself by asking for a lease on the park, and that "what really aroused the opposition" was the withdrawal of WPA work in that community as a result of the controversy.

County WPA Manager Dan Mulheron and two members of the board of supervisors, Willard Smith and N. E. West, were in court today.

Delegates to the supreme convention to be held in Toronto, Canada, in August, will be Dr. John A. Schwamm, Los Angeles; Wm. H. Sweigert, Edward Molkenbaur, Robert Roche, Dr. Joseph Hayes of San Francisco; Joseph Mitchell, Sacramento; C. P. Herbert, San Diego; Hon. Joseph Scott, Los Angeles and Joseph Enos, San Joaquin.

June 1 marks the fiftieth anniversary of the city's beginning as an organized municipality and during that week, it is planned to have guides on duty at Bowers museum daily to escort visitors through the beautiful building and to acquaint them with historic attractions in Orange county, many of which are on display there.

The jubilee program is tentatively arranged as follows: bowl doors open at 5 p. m., June 3; barbecue dinner served at 6 p. m.; jubilee show, with Frank Drumm before the microphone, 7:30 p. m.

At Least 60% One Certain Food Daily Helps Prevent Ravages Which Faulty Feeding Can Cause

THOUSANDS of dogs here get foods that actually endanger their health. Table left-overs, cheap canned rations... poorly balanced foods! University scientists, who have made hundreds of dog food tests, find this true: No dog can develop hardy muscles, sound teeth and bones, a good coat on an inadequate diet.

Every dog must regularly get a balanced, nutritionally correct diet. A famous university authority says: "A readily available source of energy, and adequate minerals and protein should exist in a dog's food."

"Balto has these three important assets. Regardless of what other foods are given, a daily feeding of at least 60% Balto will benefit the canine's health."

BALTO THE BASIC RATION
Made with whole, fresh-caught fish—Balto is a pure health food. Packed under supervision of State inspectors.

This food contains no scraps or waste products! Thousands of owners here find that it keeps their pets well, in top-notch condition always.

Make Balto at least 60% of your dog's daily feeding. Ask for the free booklet, "Pet Feeding for Health," Coast Fishing Company, Wilmington, California.

Extra Health Protection
Make it a habit to have a veterinarian examine your dog twice a year. This—besides correct feeding—is the best way to protect his health. And it costs so little.

M. C. A. boys and their fathers.

Harrison E. White, Boy Scout executive, is scheduled to give the address of the evening on "Confidence." Following the general program, the boys will have half an hour of directed recreation while the fathers engage in their usual "forum" on the problems of fatherhood.

Reservations for the dinner should be telephoned in to the Y. M. C. A. office this evening or in the morning, to insure accommodations.

U. S. TIRE 'IT' IN SAFETY FIELD SAYS JERRY HALL

An important safety development for motorists, considered one of the finest in recent months, has just been announced by Jerry Hall, U. S. tire dealer at Second and Main streets.

quipped by ordinary antiskid tires on roads of the worst type," Hall said. "In addition, this tire tremendously reduces all side skid and swerving when brakes are applied, even in emergency stops.

"The new tire—the U. S. Royal Master—owes its antiskid superiority to an entirely new principle of tread construction. This construction is the embodiment of an antiskid principle based on the use of narrow, flexible ribs which are de-skidded. The de-skidding process provides the tread with hundreds of cross-edges or fingers to grip the road.

"In addition to its great contribution to safety, the new tire gives longer wear, more stability, a quiet, comfortable ride, and a pleasing streamlined appearance."

NEW GMC TRUCK PURCHASED BY CITY

Santa Ana's new truck unit, added to improve trash collection here, is seen below in action at the city dump. The truck, with a special type body the idea for which was suggested by Councilman Ernest Layton, is Model T-18H chassis with dual performance axle, has greater load capacity and higher speed and will handle as much in two trips as any of the other city trash trucks will handle in three.

Visitors To Detroit May See Hudson Made

Recognizing the desire of Detroit visitors to see the manufacturing process in connection with automobile building, the Hudson Motor company maintains a special course for its guides so they may be continually up-to-date on the latest improvements which are constantly being made.

With an average of more than two million persons visiting Detroit annually, with some 200 conventions being conducted in the city during 1936, drawing an attendance of half a million, a large number of these visitors find their way eventually to the motor car plants and a large proportion of them go to the Hudson plant.

Speaking of Hudson's painstaking care to make a trip through its factory not only interesting, but instructive, W. R. Tracy, vice president in charge of sales, said: "The average American has in his mind a general idea of how cars are made. He visions them coming down the line, getting a tank of gas, and then being driven away to the four corners of the world. But he has very little comprehension of the processes that are employed or of what is actually done.

"There is much to see in a trip through the factory. There are the latest types of static and dynamic balancing machines, set on concrete foundations 10 feet deep, three feet wide and eight feet long and separated from the building floor by a thick wall of cork so that no vibrations from nearby machinery may reach them. On these machines are balanced the crankshafts that make Hudson-built motors so powerful and yet so quiet.

"Then there are the big multi-lathes that do eight different operations on flywheels at one time. On these machines there are eight stations, with a flywheel at each station. At the conclusion of each operation, the flywheels move around automatically to the next station, where the next operation is performed. This machine has a capacity of 60 flywheels per hour.

"The chassis assembly line is interesting, showing the cars gradually growing as they move along, until at last they emerge a complete automobile, all ready to drive off. Particularly interesting is the body plant, with its gigantic presses."

FRONT WHEEL ALIGNMENT

Many motorists, apparently, wonder at the effect of independent front wheel suspension upon wheel alignment, states L. G. Evans, director of emergency service of the National Automobile club. There is nothing to worry about. Manufacturers using this type of front springing made careful check on that point. They found that instead of contributing to misalignment, the new arrangement actually diminished the chance for its occurrence.

Puerto Cabello possesses the best harbor in Venezuela.

City Adds GMC Truck To System

As a great improvement in the system of trash collection and disposal here, a new truck has just been put into service by the city of Santa Ana.

The new unit is composed of a GMC Model T-18H chassis with the dual performance axle on which is mounted a special type body the idea for which was developed by Councilman Ernest Layton, street commissioner.

The truck body is of steel construction with the exception of the upper half of the sides which are wood slats and fold down in two sections to permit easier and faster loading. Below the frame and just behind the cab, a power winch is mounted which operates two grooved drums carrying steel cables. These cables are run outside of the body to the rear and around pulleys then back inside of the body to a movable bulkhead which, while the truck is being loaded, stands against the front of the body proper.

Upon the arrival of the loaded truck at the dump, the rear doors are opened, the driver puts the winch in gear and the load is pulled out of the truck and over the dump in a few few seconds. The winch is then reversed, the bulkhead pulled back into place, the rear doors closed and the truck is away for the next load.

Councilman Layton stated that this new vehicle, because of its greater load capacity and higher speed going to and from the dump, will handle as much trash in two trips as any of the other trash trucks will handle in three and is resulting in better service to the citizens as well as a substantial saving in first cost and operating expense.

STUDEBAKER JUMPS BUILDING PROGRAM

Figures placed at the disposal of the Headley Motor company, local Studebaker dealer, this week, reveal that the Studebaker corporation earned $104,954.08 in the first quarter of 1936, with net working capital increasing from $6,758,586 on December 31, to $7,737,332 on March 31. Net sales for the quarter totaled $15,738,737 compared with $33,837,892 for the period of March 9 to December 31, in 1935.

During the first quarter Studebaker factory sales (in units) were 50 per cent ahead of the same period a year ago, and retail deliveries of Studebaker dealers in the United States were 56 per cent ahead. For the first 20 days of April, factory sales exceeded 1935 by 51 per cent and retail deliveries were 62 per cent ahead of the corresponding period last year.

"The 1936 STUDEBAKER is the Easiest Car I EVER DROVE"

"I think it's the best-looking car this season—"

"We've owned big cars and little ones, but of all the cars I've ever driven the new Studebaker is my first choice.

"I'm judging by more than the surface appearances. Of course, they are grand cars to look at—by far the most graceful and youthful of any produced this season.

"But when I speak of 'easy to drive' I mean just that. For example, every woman I know dreads having to stop and restart any car on a hill. Some men I know don't like that, either.

"Studebaker's Hill Holder has banished all of that worry. If you have to stop on a hill you can do so with the comforting assurance that your Studebaker won't roll back an inch when you restart!

"And another improvement that I like is the overdrive. I'm no fast driver, but there are plenty of highways where I can drive safely at 40 to 50 miles an hour.

"The overdrive goes into action automatically at 40 miles an hour and then driving is just like gliding! No motor roar and no vibration to distract you. And with the overdrive we get perfectly wonderful gasoline economy. I repeat, the 1936 Studebaker is the easiest car I ever drove."

*Studebaker won two first places in the Gilmore Yosemite Economy Run. The Studebaker Six averaged 24.27 miles per gallon, while the big President Eight averaged 20.14.

OWNERS REPORT

Saving
up to 6 Barrels of Gas in a Year with DODGE

AMAZED BY SENSATIONAL GAS ECONOMY OF AMERICA'S BIG, MONEY-SAVING CAR

THINK of it. Owners say that the way Dodge economizes on gasoline, it is saving them up to six barrels of gasoline a year!

Twenty miles... 21 miles... 22... 23... and even more miles to the gallon. That's what Dodge owners from coast to coast report they are getting right out on the highway—right in city traffic—in their everyday driving! Here's a typical example—a letter from Mr. Martin Brady, Valley Stream, L. I., New York. Read how Mr. Brady figures it out! He says: "I drive my new Dodge on the average of 23,000 miles a year. It is giving me 21 miles to the gallon. On this basis I'll use only about 7.14 gallons of gas this year. In my old car I used about 1,070 gallons. In other words I'll save about 356 gallons—or more than six large-size barrels of gas—a year!

No wonder owners report that the big, new Dodge is actually costing them less to own and operate than any car, big or small, they ever owned before! No wonder more people buy Dodge cars than any other make, with the exception of the three lowest-priced cars.

"This invention showed me how I can save up to $50 in gas expense this year," says P. I. Peterson, Waukegan, Ill. "It's the gasometer, and it registers the miles per gallon a car will go. My old car was giving me about 12 or 13 miles per gallon. A friend told me about the Dodge gasometer test, took this test and saw a Dodge go 21 1/4 miles per gallon. That's why I bought a Dodge."

UNFIT DEALER IS ELIMINATED IN COMPETITION

In a speech which emphasized the need for cooperation among automobile dealers, Joseph W. Frazer, vice president of the Chrysler sales division, recently declared that the American automobile dealer group is now going through the same process of elimination of the unfit which the manufacturing department went through 15 years ago," according to O. R. Haan, local Chrysler dealer, today.

Speaking on the subject, "The Successful Automobile Dealer of the Future," Frazer traced the history of the selling branch of the industry over the last 25 years and pointed out how by the "trial and error" system it had arrived, through various phases of flux, at its present condition of stability.

"In the wake of financial chaos and in the throes of world-wide depression, the extraordinary pioneering courage exhibited previously by the dealer body as a whole, was and had to be supplemented by the greatest fortitude that has ever been exhibited in modern business by any group of merchants," said Mr. Frazer. "Then became apparent the wisdom of the early educational work of the more stable manufacturers. In this period the dealer body of the country came, fifteen years late, to the elimination process through which the manufacturing industry had already gone.

"Business is better—business is improving—business is booming and as it has improved and boomed the cries for rules and regulations have subsided; the dealers who five years ago were heeding the fundamental principles of good organization are doing the business; and just as the unfit manufacturer fell by the wayside in years gone by, so is the unfit dealer being eliminated at the present time."

TIRE NO. 250,000,000

TRAVELING ON

Misses in an engine may be caused by loose contact of breaker points.

If tires are not kept inflated to proper pressure, a break in the side walls may cause a blowout at any time.

Automobile passenger traffic on United States highways is almost 10 times as great as passenger travel on American railways.

Friday and Saturday are the two days during which most women drive, according to the Ohio State Highway department.

If any lights about the car flicker, it is probably due to a loose connection at a lamp socket or the switch terminal.

A front wheel should spin freely after a bearing adjustment, with a small degree of side play. The bearing will be ruined completely by binding.

Use of an "electric eye" on a portable screen has greatly simplified the adjustment of automobile headlights to proper focus and brilliance.

A motor truck now undergoing tests is propelled by wind sucked through a wind tunnel, creating a vacuum in front of the vehicle. If successful, this principle may be applied to dirigibles.

A portable lubricant tester now on the market enables motorists to check the condition and quality of crankcase oil.

A new German car offers combined hood and fenders which may be raised with a single motion of a lever.

Goggles have been devised which permit clear vision, yet shield the eyes from the glare of approaching cars.

Automobile accidents in Sweden have been reduced since horns were ordered silenced except in cases of extreme emergency.

An exhaust-gas analyzer determines in a one-minute test just how efficiently an automobile engine is operating.

Working on the decelerometer principle, a small brake tester, which may be attached to the windshield by a vacuum cup, shows the condition of the brakes.

Three watch towers, erected along a highway running south of San Francisco, are occupied by patrolmen constantly on the lookout for traffic offenders.

If the ignition spark is not hot enough, the resistance unit is probably at fault and should be replaced.

The rubber squeegee of an old windshield wiper can be livened by soaking overnight in a dish of ammonia.

It is difficult to stop rattles on a bumper that has been sprung or bent; this can be remedied by inserting a piece of old inner tube between the parts, to absorb vibration.

Many motorists make it a point to have their cars checked up in the spring. This is a very good plan, because winter usage is hard on the mechanism of an automobile.

SAN DIEGO HARBOR TRIP IS FEATURE

The San Diego Harbor is covered by daily excursions leaving the foot of Broadway at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m., reports the San Diego office of the National Automobile club. Some of the high spots of the two-hour trip are: historic Point Loma, Bennington monument, La Playa, lighthouses, "Little Japan," Uncle Sam's destroyers, cruisers and submarines and the Harbor Defense.

The trip, in addition to its many features, is calm enough so that it has never caused anyone to be seasick.

OCTOBER IN MAY

"H-m-m," hummed Coach Bill Foote, "you've got me there."

He had just been asked what 11 men he would start if his Saint football team had a game tomorrow.

It's May yet the question isn't irrelevant. Foote will be picking a first string next week. The Saints are up to their neck in spring practice and a regular game between the 1935 eleven and the prospective 1936's will wind it up at Poly field a week from tomorrow.

"Trouble is," mused Coach Foote, "some players have been occupied with other sports. The lineup wouldn't accurately reflect our status next fall."

Nevertheless, Coach Foote ran over his list. He inferred that the "trouble" he uses 'em against the "Last Year" game next week.

"Take 'em from center out," he said. "I like to start with the center. He's a kind of key man. Don Warburton gets the spot off his work this spring. He's a rangy sophomore with two years of eligibility ahead. Comes in at about 165, I want him to pick up 10 pounds this summer."

"On the left side of the line we'll have Monte Klepper at guard, Bill Milligan at tackle and Milton Smith at end. Klepper has a good man to out in Lyle Meyer who made a letter last year. Milligan might be one of the best tackles we've ever had. He's a 210-pounder and active for a big man. I had him at end at this time last year. Then he broke his arm and I wasn't able to use him again. Vernon Carney, a sub last year, will spell Milligan. Carney hasn't been put as regularly as I had hoped. He's been ill. Smith at end is another sophomore, an adequate pass receiver. Mitsuo Nitta, a Japanese sub, may eventually be on that end. He's been out for track until this week."

"On the right side of the line, I'll probably have Bob Maddock or Dick Horton at guard, Ferris Wall at tackle and Larry Stump at end. Maddock and Stump will be seniors next year. Wall was a first string guard in '35. He's a heavy set little guy who is hard to get out of there."

Foote doubts whether his line will be as tight as it was a year ago. The Saint forwards were good in '35; that is, they were good against everyone but Long Beach. Off that line, Foote is losing two centers (Robinson and Richards); three guards (Crawford, Schilling and Garrett); two tackles (Reid and Crowther) and four ends (Yonel, Short, Semmacker and Kennedy).

Backfield Hard Hit Too

Gone are Hall, quarterback; Joy, Mann, back and Mercurio, half-backs, and Minoru Nitta and Dunbar, fullbacks. The first three were regulars.

"But we'll have a pretty fair set of backs," decided Foote. "Right now I'll pick Harold Tucker at quarter, Len Stafford at left half, Capt. Dwight Nott at right half, and Bill (Jim's brother) Musick at full. That's about the way we'll start 'em next week."

"Tucker was a second string quarter last year. He's a brother of Sammy. Stafford was a sub too. He's a rangy 170-pounder who lacks only confidence. Nott is a fast, stocky little guy who'll surprise a lot of folk. And Musick should be much improved. He was hurt a lot last season and that slowed him up."

Like other school officials, Foote feels as a life-saver the addition of Woodrow Wilson and Herbert Hoover high schools to the erstwhile four-team Coast League membership.

It was pretty tough trying to drum up interest when we had only three league rivals," Foote explained. "The players as well as public were inclined to yawn at the set-up. Now we can offer them a legitimate schedule with a proper balance of league and non-league competition."

Hail Frank Wykoff's Comeback

VETERAN BACK IN OLYMPIC DASH PICTURE

WHITTIER, May 20.—(UP)—Frank Wykoff, who as a Glendale schoolboy dominated the sprint scene eight years ago, rocketed back into the Olympic spotlight today after streaking the fastest 100-meter race of his dynamic career last night.

Under the arc lights of Whittier college stadium, the sandy speed-runner pumped his 26-year-old legs to a yard-and-a-half victory over Roy Draper, U. S. G. captain, cutting the tape in 10.5 sec., a faster clip than he sped to win the Olympic trials in 1928. Wykoff smashed into the lead with his first stride, and then at the 40-yard mark whipped on to win going away.

The stocky veteran, shooting for his third consecutive Olympic berth; served serious warning to America's ebony sprint triumvirate—Owens, Metcalf and Peacock—that he cannot be counted out when tryouts for the Berlin games wind into the final rounds.

Wykoff's feat overshadowed another comeback, that of Bill Graber, baldish pole-vaulter of 1932 games fame. Graber soared 14 feet, 3 inches to win from Jack Rand, former San Diego State vaulter, who went over 14 feet after Bill Sefton dropped out at 12:45.

FRANK WYKOFF
May Break Up Black Monopoly

12:45. Graber cleared the bamboo pole with inches to spare.

Leroy Kirkpatrick of San Mateo who cracked the national junior college 120-yard hurdle mark at Fresno Saturday, skinned the tail barriers to win in a blanket finish at 8.6 seconds for the 70-yard route. He nipped Phil Cope by inches, while Roy Staley was less than a foot behind for third.

Gordon Dunn threw the discus 164.7, beating Ken Carpenter for the second time this year. Carpenter did 160 feet. Bob Clark broad-jumped 24.4-1-2 and Norman Bright ran the two mile in 9:29.3.

WILSON TOO FAST FOR BOYD, GRESCHNER

Lucian Wilson had definite proof today that he is still better than his former teammates at Santa Ana Jaycees.

Wilson, captain of the Don cinder forces and premier timber-topper in Southern California, jaycee ranks last year, last night nosed out Frank Boyd and Bill Greschner in the 70-yard special hurdles at the pre-Olympic meet at Whittier. As there were only four lanes on the track, officials had to run a "special" race in the highs in order to accommodate the large shuttle entry list. Wilson, Boyd, and Greschner placed one-two-three. However, it was only through Trojan Wilson's driving finish that he was able to clip his ex-teammate Boyd. The rangy Trojan barrier jumper broke the tape six inches ahead of Boyd in 9 sec. flat with Greschner trailing in close behind.

Jim Noe failed by an ace of cracking his own school record in the pole vault when he went out at 12:16. The Don aviator was the last one to be eliminated ahead of the winners of the first four places.

New Coach Slated For Saints' Athletic Department In Fall

A new coach—his identity still cloaked in mystery—is slated to join Santa Ana high school's physical education department next fall. The Register learned today.

While reluctant to discuss the situation, Principal Lynn H. Crawford and Superintendent Frank Henderson admitted there was "something in the wind." They said they had nobody in particular in mind for the post and that later developments would determine just what kind of a job would be created—if any.

It is reliably reported, however, that this is the set-up: Combination coaching and academic positions will be abolished at the high school next year, meaning that incumbents will be allowed to make up their own minds whether to be full-time coaches or full-time academic instructors.

Clyde Cook, who teaches history and doubles up as Saint baseball and lightweight coach, has asked to be relieved of his work in the physical education department.

This will leave a vacancy, Head Coach Bill Foote, Coach Clyde Patton and Coach Clyde Green being the full-time supervisors of the new deal.

Greene was given tenure at last week's meeting of the board of education.

The new coach, whoever he is, will handle baseball and some of the minor sports. Coach Foote will continue with football, and Greene probably with basketball and track.

FREDDIE LINDSTROM RETIRES FROM BALL

NEW YORK, May 20.—(UP)—Retirement from baseball of Freddie Lindstrom, the former "boy wonder" of the late John J. McGraw, left the Brooklyn Dodgers in a state of hitting outfielder more acute than ever today and Casey Stengel was believed dicker with the Chicago Cubs for "Chuck" Klein.

Lindstrom, only 31, announced his resignation from the Dodgers yesterday and it was as much of a shock to the baseball world as his release from the champion Cubs last fall. Freddie had chosen the Dodgers in the belief that he could help the club despite several offers from other major league managers.

He had not been going so good this year, hitting only .264 and troubled by a knee injury. His throwing arm lacked the power it used to have. Close followers of the game believe that the real cause of Lindy's resignation dated back to 1933 when his roommate, Bill Terry, was named to succeed John McGraw as manager of the Giants. Lindstrom had felt that McGraw was grooming him for the job.

The Dodgers scheduled contest with the Cincinnati Reds was rained out yesterday as were the New York-Pittsburgh and the St. Louis-Philadelphia games.

In the only National League game played, the Boston Bees engaged in a slugfest with the Chicago Cubs and nosed out a 6 to 5 victory. New York's Yankees, American league leaders, blasted out a 10 to 4 win over Cleveland.

The second place Boston Red Sox only got four hits but made them count in defeating the Chicago White Sox, 4-2. Tom Bridges limited Washington to four hits as Detroit won 4 to 2.

The St. Louis Browns made it two straight over the Athletics, 8 to 4.

WIGHTMAN CUPPERS SAIL FOR ENGLAND

Play for the Wightman Cup consists of five singles matches and two doubles contests. U. S. teams have won the trophy nine times and the British four times.

Girls' League Officially Opens at Bowl

Santa Ana's first girls' softball league formally opens at the Municipal Bowl tonight after a series of practice games that have attracted large crowds.

PICK 'BITSY' GRANT ON DAVIS CUP TEAM

NEW YORK, May 20.—(UP)—After holding out for years the U. S. Lawn Tennis association capitulated today and decided to give its problem child, Bryan (Betsy) Grant, Jr., of Atlanta, his chance.

At a meeting of the Davis Cup selection committee last night, the Georgia "giant-killer" was named as a member of the team to oppose the Australians in the North American zone finals at Philadelphia beginning May 30.

Grant was chosen along with Wilmer Allison, U. S. singles champion, and Gene Mako and Donald Budge, America's outstanding doubles combination. Whether Grant actually will get to play against the Aussies is a matter that probably will not be decided until just before the opening match.

Budge and Mako virtually are clinched to take the doubles assignment. Budge's name has improved so much since last year, that the selection committee, headed by Holcombe Ward of New York, indicated that he might also be called on to play singles.

This leaves the remaining singles with an issue between Allison and Grant. Whether the committee is willing to leave America's No. 1 player off the team in favor of Grant, who has won three out of five matches with Allison, is a matter still to be settled.

GROVE'S GREAT HURLING MAKES 'EXPERT' BLUSH

BY HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, May 20.—Perhaps the hay-wirest observation made by any sports writer after watching the major league baseball teams train in Florida came from a roly-poly New York gent with freckles.

Following three days of close study of Tom Yawkey's Boston Red Sox at Sarasota, this critic wound up his portable and let fly a criticism which went something like this:

"The Red Sox haven't much chance to win the American league

'LEFTY' GROVE
Makes McLeMORE's Face Red

pennant because they are depending on the worn out 'Lefty' Grove for a large share of their pitching. And Grove, burned out by many years of fire-balling, won't come through."

Truth Will Out

I don't like to reveal the name of this errant sports writer for he's sure to be embarrassed. But the admirable, if somewhat confused mouth of this pillar of piety and light, has long been "the truth, and nothing but the truth, and let the chips fall where they may." So I feel it my duty to disclose the scamp's name. It's McLeMORE—Henry McLeMORE.

The thing that amazes me most about "Lefty's" pitching is the zealous manner in which he still chunks that hot one in there. I had heard (and I bet it was McLeMORE who told me) that the old white elephant couldn't burn it by the batters any more; that the crack was coming all the time; that the "Lefty" in his top years with the A's, used to rear back and smoke it through in the clutch? Well, he did the same thing against the Sox when I saw him the other day.

The only difference I can see in the Grove of the present and the Grove of the past is that he doesn't have to depend on that blinding fire ball so often. He used to throw it all the time, for the clutches were coming all the time, what with his lack of control, and insufficient supply of curves and wiles.

Has Control and Curves

Now he's got everything. He puts that ball where he wants it all the time; his curves break like a pair of glasses, and he works a hitter's weakness to a fare thee well.

"Mickey" Cochrane, who caught the gangling left-hander when he was at his peak (or rather when he thought he was at his peak) told me last spring that the old boy hadn't lost much of his speed.

"Maybe that hot one isn't quite what it once was," Cochrane said, "but it still dives past you like a humming bird with its pants on fire. It's still quite a problem to see it in time to take a recent cut at it."

I wish McLeMORE had heard that. Maybe it would have saved him the embarrassment of placing Grove in the old man's home ten years before his time.

'SHORTY' SMITH ON JOB AGAIN AT BREA

BREA, May 20.—Coach "Shorty" Smith has returned to his work at Brea-Olinda union high school following an absence of two weeks because of infection in his right hand. The infection began on a wound in the palm caused by a porcelain faucet breaking in his hand.

Friday's Games
Orange at Santa Ana, Olive at Huntington Beach, Westminster at Anaheim.

Sweeping on toward their early season "climax game" with Huntington Beach here next Tuesday, Santa Ana's undefeated Stars moved down Westminster, 5-2, at the Municipal Bowl last night.

It was the thirteenth straight victory (interspersed with two ties) for Manager George Lackaye's National league leaders.

Westminster offered stubborn resistance until Pitcher "Fuzzy" Errington pulled a muscle in his shoulder and lost his effectiveness. Until then it was a 1-1 ball game that might have gone either way. Both scored in the fourth—Santa Ana on a single by Coots, a walk to Preble and a single to center by Al Rebohn that Harmonis kicked into left field; Westminster on Joe Hosack's double, Montgomery's out and Sauer's infield single.

Errington, hurt his shoulder during a slow-ball in the fifth but staggered through that inning without trouble. But he lost control in the sixth, passing Coots and Preble for a starter. They moved up on Rebohn's grounder to Montgomery. Coots tallied on a wild pitch and Preble on Young's single.

Outfielder Harmonis relieved "Fuzzy" in the seventh. "Doc" Smith greeted him with a well-kissed homer to right-center, and singles by Smith, Coots and Rebohn gave the Santa Anans another in the ninth.

The Aviators got their second counter off Jim Coots in the last of the ninth when Jim McNabb, usually easy for the Star slinger, homed between Rebohn and Lacy.

Huntington Beach got a run in the fourth, another in the fifth when Louie Neva hit a homer over the right field fence and two in the sixth when Murray tripled with two aboard. Orange scored in the fourth on Hill's kick, a wild pitch, Gunther's sacrifice and Walker's single.

Neva hit another ball over the fence in the fourth but two were out and his shot was nullified when Schuchardt was called out for leaving second before the ball passed the hitter. The record: Huntington Beach 4, Orange 1.

CHAPTER XXV
 FORTUNATELY Linda was able to get a drawing room. She didn't know how she could have escaped accepting Honey Harmon's invitation to share hers. And the last person in the world that Linda wanted to share any intimacies with was Honey.

When she had said good night sweetly to the other girl and was at last in the privacy of her own company with the miles toward Pete growing shorter, Linda went back, step by step, over the way she had travelled since Honey Harmon had come to Newtown and changed the design of her life. Ironically enough, Honey would have been on the train that was to bring her back to a final readjustment.

Linda was almost a fatalist. She did not think for one moment during that searching review that had she stayed in Newtown, she would have found the key to happiness. She knew that she had had to have the lesson in disillusionment to find her real love. Perhaps it had been painful for Pete but now that she knew for all time that she loved him, that he was the only man she had ever known who was a real man, she would have her lifetime to make up to him for the pain she might have cost him.

Remembering the lean line of his jaw, the easy grace of his walk, she fell asleep with a song in her heart, its echo reaching out to her tomorrows.

She had been without a purpose all her life until now and, waking the next morning, she lay back in her pillows with the serene relaxed satisfaction of a woman who has made the first step in accomplishing the great purpose of her life and from whom no action can now be expected. She would like to have dreamed her way to New York, passing time with nothing more exciting than window- and star-gazing. She knew it was quite impossible.

HONEY proved it to be so. About 1:30, Honey's maid invited Linda to lunch with Honey. Linda accepted.

She might have been Honey's dearest friend. "Darling, why didn't you tell me you were coming east on this train?"

"I didn't know it until the last minute myself," Linda answered, applying herself to her grapefruit. "Really? How exciting. Romance? New job or clothes?"

"Why . . . er . . . a story. I'm . . . I'm going to buy a new story." Linda shouldn't have hesitated over her answer. It was a long and dull trip and Honey pounced on any possible kernel of interest. She tried to remember what she might have heard about Linda in the last few weeks. There had been that story about Basil Thorne, but did she really believe it? Honey wasn't sure, but remembering it, her smouldering dislike of Linda broke into little flames of anger.

"I think you're simply wonderful," she said to Linda. "Just think, if it hadn't been for Pete Gardner re-writing that script that I first bought, you never would have come to Hollywood and been so successful."

Pete had rewritten that first script! So, she actually owed her whole career to him! Swift color rose in Linda's cheek and hurriedly she spoke of something else.

WHEN they arrived at Kansas City with a short stop-over, she was with Honey when the reporters arrived to catch what news of Hollywood they could pick up by interview. They pounced on Honey.

"Will you tell us why you are going east?"

Honey, radiant in mink and orchids, was gracious, flashing her famous smile and elongated eyelashes. "I expect to desert pictures for a little while," she admitted, smiling apologetically.

"And what for?" her interviewer asked.

HONEY pondered thoughtfully for a moment. Should she or shouldn't she tell him? At last: "I am going to do a play. I think every actress should try the legitimate theater, and I've always wanted to, but they simply wouldn't give me time away from Hollywood."

"Have you decided what you are going to do? Any play in mind?" Again the hesitancy and an unseen sliver of Linda's "I . . . I expect to play in Peter Gardner's new play that Holbein is producing."

Linda did only one thing when she heard that. She held her pocketbook with fingers that bit into it and somehow steadied the rocking of her being.

"Gardner?" The reporter had read his Hollywood columns. "That's . . . er . . . I hope you'll excuse the question, Miss Harmon, but wasn't there a rumor that you were engaged to him?"

Honey actually giggled, but just for a moment. Then she looked confused, happy, struggling for the right answer and finally it came—a please-don't-quote-me-be-cause-I-trust-you gaze of innocence. "Not really engaged," she said, and left them feeling that Pete Gardner was waiting at Grand Central with a marriage license in his hand.

Not one thing outwardly about Linda was changed. They left Kansas City sitting together in Linda's drawing room. They dined together, played cards and said good night to each other.

Linda didn't tell her that she was getting off at Chicago. Getting off to go back to the coast, leaving her heart at the end of the journey she had set out upon so confidently.

She couldn't bear a moment of thinking. There were hours before the train westward-bound would carry her back. She walked until she was exhausted and the rain had drenched her once chic suit. It was warm and noisy and hurried in the railroad station; she preferred it there until bored by her study of people who meant nothing to her and afraid of her own bleak thoughts, she went to the news stand. At the booth where out-of-town newspapers were sold, she bought a copy of the Newtown Blade.

And over a warming cup of coffee in the station restaurant she perused its once-familiar columns until coming on a headline, she sat bolt upright, pushing chair and change over the counter.

BLADE SOLD TO NEW PUBLISHER. The words danced before her eyes.

In her pocket was her return ticket to Hollywood. It remained there, forgotten, as she slept wearily for the six hours that the bus to Newtown sped over the roads out of Chicago.

It was scarcely 9 in the morning when she opened the door to the outer office in the old Blade Building. She didn't know the girl at the desk.

"Can you tell me whom I should see about getting a job here?" she asked.

"You'll have to see the publisher," the girl said, noting the incongruity of Linda's smart suit and her face, without make-up, weary from lack of sleep but alight with an inner glow.

"That's what I really came for," Linda said, gravely.

"I guess you can go right in," the other girl said, opening the swinging gate.

Linda walked through and opened the door without knocking. She walked softly and softly closed the door in back of her.

She scarcely breathed the words, "Excuse me, please. I used to work on this paper. I was happier here than anywhere I've ever been in my life. I'd like to apply for a position again if you have one for me."

There was a pause and then: "If you're interested only in a temporary job, I can't help you, but if you'll consider a permanent job, the publisher can offer you—as he always has from the bottom of his heart—a position that fills it. His heart, I mean."

"It's the only position in the world worth having," she said, and walked into Pete Gardner's arms.

Late News of Fullerton

TREE PLANTING PROGRAM WILL BE CONSIDERED

FULLERTON, May 20.—A tree planting program was discussed when members of the city council met last night, with Mayor Harry Maxwell presiding. Under the engineer, Herman Hiltcher, and the park superintendent, Harry Byerrum, the city will be considered to consider removal of trees in parking areas that are a menace to life and property and to plan a detailed planting program, the committee to report back at the next meeting.

The street committee is to investigate the state laws on state highways concerning the cutting of curbs by business groups.

The program for planting trees was brought about after a group of citizens on Roosevelt Avenue petitioned the council to remove the silk oak trees and palm trees.

A request of the Waste Water disposal company for reduced rates in their use of the outfall sewer from $700 to $400, with the Waste Water Disposal company carrying five per cent of the repair load of the outfall sewer district, was read, and the councilmen moved to consider the request.

The appointment of Ed P. Wurtz by Chief J. M. Pearson as police officer during vacations was ratified by the council.

Fullerton will cooperate with other cities in testing the legality of the Stewart-Riley bill and the tax on utilities for cities.

The city allowed $50 toward providing a band for the Memorial day services at the Loma Vista cemetery.

SCHOLARSHIP AT SCRIPPS WON BY LOCAL GIRL

In the spring of 1935, Dr. Jaqua, president of Scripps college, came to Santa Ana to see Mrs. William Otis to try to interest her in the new plan Scripps college was adopting—that of regional scholarships to be donated by some member of the community. At that time these scholarships had been set up in San Diego, Redlands, South Pasadena and Claremont.

Mrs. Otis did become interested in this movement because she had always admired Scripps college for its beautiful location and wonderful personalities. She knew that Scripps college was a fairly new college, unique in the respect that it was largely supported by women.

Mrs. Otis pledged $500.00 annually to be offered as a scholarship to the girl in Santa Ana High school chosen through standards of high scholarship, student activities and general all-round qualities. She dedicated this scholarship to the memory of her granddaughter, Susanne Spruance, who was a brilliant girl. In the words of the donors, "This scholarship is awarded in memory of little Susanne whose bright, loving spirit showed great possibilities for inspired leadership and, in her name, we give this opportunity to the girl in the senior class of the Santa Ana High school who has shown the greatest promise."

The first scholarship was offered for the year 1934-1935, as Mrs. Otis had become interested in the project too late in 1933 to offer it for that year. Miss Dorothy Proctor won the scholarship the first year, and Miss Margaret Munro received it for the year 1935-1936.

The girls are chosen by a committee comprised of Mrs. William Otis, Mrs. Alan Revell, Mrs. Wil-

JIMMY FIDLER in —HOLLYWOOD—

HOLLYWOOD — Hollywood's most dreaded message periodically passes from mouth to mouth, leaving in its wake fright-widened eyes and pounding hearts. "Studio shutdown!" In an executive office the word is spoken, and within a few minutes it has spread like wildfire over the colony. Studio shutdown! Season of unwork. Era of skimp tables and eked out pleasure-pennies for extras and work crews. For contract stars, whose salaries continue rain or shine, studio shutdown means only a holiday.

Despite the industry's growth and its long-past celebration of its twenty-first birthday, it is not yet stabilized. Executive councils sit in session in January and carefully plan out the year's programs, only to have uncertain weather spoil plans and throw routines helter-skelter. Then follows the mad rush to catch up, and as usual, Hollywood overdoes it and presto! studios are far ahead of schedule. Studio shutdowns ensue, and improvident workers who apparently will never heed the story of the bee and the butterfly, must scrape and borrow to weather the financial storm.

This story about Hale Hamilton will lift your mouth corners. Hale bought a spick new car and went for a drive on a country lane. A stray horse meandered down the center of the road, and to avoid a collision, the actor turned into a ditch, smashing both front wheels. The accident occurred miles from civilization, so Hamilton—wise fellow—mounted the horse, used a rope for a rein, and rode back to Hollywood. He advertised that the owner of the animal could regain possession by paying for damages done the automobile. Hamilton waited for days, but no answer came to claim the horse, which in the meantime cost the actor a pretty penny for hay and oats. Surprising how much food a stray horse can stow away! At any rate, Hamilton gave up in disgust, and last heard of, had inserted a want-ad that the owner might have his nag simply by taking him away; Hamilton is quite willing to forget damages.

I may as well mention John Mack Brown's tennis court and free circus while the thought occurs. To John and his friends, that oblong concrete streak with a net across the center is a place to whack tennis balls. To the general public, it is a circus, because the court lies beside a much-used public highway. In plain sight. Every day, when Ronald Colman, Lew Ayres, Gene Raymond, Gilbert Roland, Carole Lombard, and other racquet-swinging stars gather there, cars filled with movie fans clog the roadway. A new attendance record was established last Saturday morning, when three sight-seeing buses and seven private cars lined the street; at least 150 people were in them. P. S. (Public Sorrow). CHURCH GROUP GIVEN PERMIT FOR MEETINGS

LA HABRA, May 20.—Permission was granted to the Four Square Gospel church by the city council at its regular meeting Tuesday evening to hold street meetings Saturday evenings in La Habra and also to maintain loud speakers on the outside of their church building.

City Engineer J. B. Sanks reported on the condition of the outfall sewer, owned by several cities in Orange county, among them being La Habra, and stated that it would take approximately between $75,000 and $100,000 to repair the damage. He also stated that at the Fullerton screening station there was need of a fence around buildings and upon motion the sewer committee was given power to act for La Habra in its share of building a fence.

The matter of weed cleaning was brought up by the street superintendent and he was instructed to send out post cards notifying property owners of vacant lots to clean the weeds off within a certain time. Otherwise the city will do this work and charge the owners. This is the same procedure followed in other years.

The matter of granting a permit to J. Gutierrez to operate a Mexican show within the city was granted with the provision that the chief of police locate the show where it will not disturb residents. Councilman Frazier told the council of a lot he could secure for the city free of all encumbrances, which he thought would be an ideal place for a barbecue pit and where tables and benches could be arranged for the use of residents. The matter was discussed and the city attorney instructed to investigate the matter.

BIDS ON SEWER PLANT REJECTED

SUNSET BEACH, May 20.—Directors of the Sunset Beach Sanitary district voted last night to reject all bids for the proposed sewer system and to ask the PWA for additional funds for the project.

Yesterday, members of the district board conferred with PWA officials in Los Angeles and, in addition to requesting additional funds for the project, asked for in appeal for all voters of the World War and other patriotic citizens to pay tribute to the war dead by wearing memorial poppies on Poppy Day, Saturday, was issued today by Allison Honer, commander of Santa Ana post of the American Legion. "Commander Honer also urged generous contributions in exchange for the flowers to aid the war's living victims, the disabled veterans and families of the dead and disabled.

"Saturday will be Poppy Day in Santa Ana," Honer said, "when we all will be called upon to wear the memorial flower of the World War dead and make contributions for the welfare of those who sacrificed health and strength at peace—the price of the nation's World War victory. I am sure that all veterans of the war and all other patriotic citizens will wear the symbolic little flower and will contribute as liberally as their means permit for the work of mercy and relief the poppy makes possible.

"Poppy Day contributions are used by the American Legion and Auxiliary to help the disabled veterans in the hospitals, to help their families at home, to aid children left without a father's support because of the war, and in all phases of Legion and Auxiliary work for the war's living victims. Every penny is made to serve the best purposes for which it is donated under the administration of the Legion and Auxiliary's volunteer workers. "The poppies will be distributed by the women of the Auxiliary, the wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of the men of the Legion. They will work without compensation of any kind, giving their time and efforts gladly to help the hand that feeds the living. We hope we all will respond to them in the same spirit when they offer the poppies on the streets Saturday."

Miss Putnam, who has taught dancing in Santa Ana for the past 14 years, is one of the few authorized representatives of the Ernest Belcher method of dance instruction, in Southern California.

In addition to her school in Santa Ana, Miss Putnam has classes in Hollywood and Claremont.

GARDEN GROVE, May 29.—The Garden Grove Branch Library has received a shipment of new books, according to announcement made today by Mrs. Blanche Wisner, local librarian. Special privileges will be extended to vacationers who wish to take books out for a longer time than the usual period.

Following is the list of books that will be in the library for approximately three months: "The Yankee Boydies," Rabson; "Hidden Shoals," Basset; "Freedom, Farewell," Carr; "Red Sky in the Morning," Coffin; "Science versus Crime," Robinson; "Catalyst Club," Dyer; "Abyssinian on the Eve," Farago; "Thunder Over the Bronx," Kober; "Secrets of the White Lady," Landau; "Jane Adams," Linn; "After a Hundred Years," McFee; "Sparkbrook," Morgan; "Fifty Years a Surgeon," Morris; "Golden Apples," Pringle; "In the Shadow of Liberty," Coad; "The Price of Peace," Simonds; "Walk Humbly," Stevens; "A Few Foolish Ones," Carroll.

A number of other books have been received from the main library in Santa Ana for summer reading.

All white cats are deaf, provided they have been bred from pure white stock.

Orange county veterans will get at least $1,253,000 in bonus bonds and treasury checks during the last two weeks of June, unless the county falls behind the national average in this respect.

The $1,253,000 represents, roughly, fifty per cent of the total sum due Orange county veterans on adjusted service certificates, on the basis of figures furnished by Representative Wright Patman, of Texas, "father of the bonus." This total for Orange county is $2,567,000. Patman's figures have been disowned by the Veteran's administration as "unofficial," but the administration has not come forward with figures of its own and Patman's figures are probably as close an estimate as can be made."

Three seasons contribute to the treasury department's prediction that half the bonus will be paid by the end of June. First, out of slightly over three million bonus applications which have been filed with the veterans administration only about two million are expected to have been audited and turned over to the treasury for payment by June 15. Second, the treasury is running "about two weeks behind" the veterans' administration in issuing bonus bonds on audited applications. Third, it appears that smaller applications are coming in first, so that while more than half the estimated $300,000,000 of applications will be paid during June, a dollar value to be about half the total bonus liability.

Opening at Walker's State theater today are two exceptionally fine feature films, one being the first time in the city at Santa Ana. It is "Bad Boy" with James Dunn and Dorothy Wilson. The other is the spectacular and romantic adventure picture, "Captain Blood" with Errol Flynn in the title role.

Due to the length of "Captain Blood," the evening performances today and tomorrow start at 6:45 o'clock and this picture will be screened again starting at 9:45 p. m. In the supporting cast are such outstanding cinema players as Olivia de Havilland, Lionel Barrymore, Basil Rathbone, Henry Alexander, Gene Krupa, Ross Stephens, Sam Robert Barrat, Robert Cavagnagh and J. Carroll Naish.

The first run film is about the search of a young secretly married couple for happiness. The story was written by Vina Delmar, author of "Bad Girl."

H. R. Judah, Santa Cruz newspaper publisher and widely known as a civic leader, has been appointed a member of the California State Highway Commission.

Parallel with the rising curve of residential construction, the outstanding advances of the 12 Federal Home Loan Banks to the member private thrift and home financing institutions, have registered an unbroken rise each month since April 1935, according to R. Raddant, secretary-manager of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Santa Ana, formerly the Southwest Building and Loan association. This organization is a member of the federal group.

Raddant said that on April 1 last these advances totaled $1,585,544, or the last 12 months' outstanding credits, now available to home owners, home builders through the members of the bank system throughout the United States, have risen by more than 20 per cent in spite of heavy repayments

Preparing for a bitter battle the County-wide Committee Against the Single Tax will launch its formal campaign tomorrow night at a mass meeting to be held at 7:30 p. m. in the auditorium of Frances Willard Junior High school.

J. A. Smiley, chairman of the committee, said today that the principal speaker will be Von T. Ellsworth, head of the research department of the California Farm Bureau Federation, and one of the foremost tax authorities in the state. Smiley said that Ellsworth has a prominent part in the program which relieved property owners of the county's share of school taxes and in the drafting of the sales tax and the income tax laws which provide the money for the state to pay the farmer county's property tax share of the state's allocation.

The mass-meeting tomorrow night will be open to the public. Smiley said and will offer an opportunity for those attending to hear Ellsworth explain what the proposed single tax would mean to real property.

Officers of the county-wide committee opposing the plan are:

Chairman, J. A. Smiley; secretary, Mrs. Albert Launer; treasurer, Homer Chaney; first vice chairman (at large) C. S. Chapman; second vice president (at large) W. F. Croddy; Santa Ana vice chairman, Mrs. J. J. Mills; Orange vice chairman, A. Haven Smith; Anaheim vice chairman, Frank Taubsch; Fullerton vice chairman, Mrs. C. R. Vandenberg; Tustin vice chairman, Mrs. J. D. Campbell; San Juan Capistrano vice chairman, C. L. Crocker; Costa Mesa vice chairman, T. B. Talbert; Western Orange county vice chairman, Mrs. W. T. Kirven.

Charles Stauffacher, exchange student at Linghan, Canton, China, conducted a long range campaign for student body president of Pomona College, Claremont, Calif.

Five Orange county cases will be heard by the state Industrial Accident Commission in the Santa Ana city hall tomorrow since referee L. E. White presides over the trial calendar for that date.

W. B. Shaw (Attorney A. Nelson) vs. W. and T. Welding Company and the National Auto Insurance Company.

Ray Richards vs. the Laguna Beach Hummer company and the National Automobile Insurance company.

Manuel Moreno (Attorney Harman C. Westover) vs. H. and J. M. Mury company and the State Compensation Insurance fund.

Ralph C. Wright (Attorneys Diehl and Anderson) vs. Terminal Island Packing company, Andy Christensen and Alvie Fisher, and the Associated Indemnity Insurance company.

Max Miller, former reporter of the San Diego Sun and noted author, will be the guest speaker at the third annual Santa Ana Junior college journalism banquet Friday May 22, to which representative from all Orange county high schools have been invited.

In conjunction with the yearling banquet at the Jaycee, the winners of the newspaper contest sponsored by the Journalism department will be announced and award will be given for the different phases of the competition.

During the past two years, Mr. Miller has abandoned newspaper work and devoted his attentions to lecturing and to writing. His appearance in Santa Ana will mark only the first instance that another group in Southern California has had an opportunity to hear him and will be his first appearance in Orange county.

LA HABRA, May 20.—Prices in the poppy poster contest, sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary, will be awarded at the school assembly hour May 22. Two local children won awards of merit from the 21st district contest also.

Poppy day will be observed May 23 and the local auxiliary has been making extensive preparations for this event.

Hospitality Is Expressed By Gay Luncheon

That pleasant hospitality which friends have learned to expect in the Thomas H. Glenn home, 2475 Riverside Drive, was manifested again yesterday when Mrs. Glenn added a bridge luncheon to a party series introduced early in the spring.

She was generously supplied with flowers by several friends, including Mrs. William H. Spurgeon Jr. and Mrs. Terry E. Stephenson. These, added to what her own garden produced, and many blossoms from California hills, created a delightful garden effect in the home.

In the dining room with its dominant note of blue, she used a high light of white Cherokee roses, mingled with plumes of mountain lilac and delphinium. Places at the luncheon table were indicated for the hostess and for Mesdames Dexter Ball, Wilbur Barr, Lloyd Chenoweth, Richard Enison, Harry G. Hoffman, E. T. McFadden, Herbert Miller, Fred Rowland, William H. Spurgeon Jr., Terry E. Stephenson and Emory White.

Of this group, Mrs. Miller scored high in the contract games of the afternoon, and received a charming gift. No less attractive were two remaining prizes, one for the hostess, and the other for the guest of honor, Mrs. White, who was midway between the two extremes.

Election Held During Book Review Group's Beach Party

Enjoying the hospitality of Mrs. Thoburn White's home on Balboa Island, members of Junior Ebbel Book Review section yesterday climaxed an eventful year with a pleasant affair during which election of officers took place.

Mrs. Albert Harvey was named leader to succeed Mrs. Robert Guld; Mrs. White, program chairman to succeed Mrs. Raymond Terry; Mrs. Burt F. Zaiser, reporter, secretary-treasurer to succeed Mrs. Alvin Stauffer.

Quill Pen Club Turns Its Attention to Culinary Arts

In a secluded garden where boughs bending beneath their burdens of pears, peaches, apples, avocados and citrus fruits were no less intriguing than the flowers blossoming in the borders, Quill Pen club members dined Monday night with Mrs. N. E. Wells and Miss Verna Wells, who had suggested a covered dish dinner at their home, 924 Halladay street.

Mrs. Frank Was and Mrs. S. R. Marshall planned the menu, to which the hostesses contributed the dessert course of strawberry shortcake—the only true kind, with a rich biscuit base and a pyramid of whipped cream. Small tables, each arranged for four diners, were grouped around the grill which kept hot the coffee, tea and hot dishes of the menu, and added warmth to the night air.

Subsequent hours were spent within doors, where sweet peas that had graced the dinner tables added their fragrance to other flowers. There was little thought of a program, although several impromptu numbers were read, including the charming verses, "Bess Tudor—Age 6" by Mrs. Was. This poem was written for a young expression pupil of Holly Lash Visel, Wanda Marie Goode. When she gave it at the recent Allied Arts festival in Los Angeles, she scored first place in her division.

Club gifts were made to three sons of members who have recently married. These will be delivered by the mothers in each case, to Harper Goff, Neil Adams and Carleton Smith, and their brides.

The next meeting of the group will be the usual program affair with Mrs. S. B. Marshall as hostess in her home, 525 South Carnation street, on the night of June 5. Manuscripts will be due from Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Smith and Miss Lella Watson.

Before the meeting came to a close, home-made candy, salted nuts and luscious little fruit squares brought by a club guest, Mrs. James A. Small, were served.

Mrs. Small was the only guest present, members including the hostesses, Mrs. Wells and Miss Wells, Miss Lella Watson, Miss Mildred Watson, Mesdames S. B. Marshall, Roy Winchester, Marshall Harnois, Blanche Brown, J. U. Viau, Harry M. Smith, Frank Willsey, Frank Was, Marab Adams, William Fritcher and Emmett Elliott.

Gruettner, chairman, and Mrs. J. Eugene Walker, Mrs. Zaiser, Miss Ann Tarver, Mrs. Oliver Lindemeyer, Mrs. Betty Wiswall, Mrs. James Workman. They had arranged for the serving of a delicious supper at the close of an afternoon passed informally in playing bridge, swimming or enjoying other beach sports. Present in addition to the hostesses were Mesdames Arthur Wade, Thoburn White, Crawford Nalle, George Walker, Stanley Norlon, Albert Harvey, Harold Dale, Herbert Stroschein, F. F. Mead Jr., Gordon X. Richmond, Carl Eltiste, Raymond Terry, Alvin Stauffer, Robert Guld.

Activities of the section will be resumed September 15, when Mesdames George Walker, Harold Dale and James Workman will be hostesses in the former's home, 2475 Valencia street.

Host Quartet Entertains At Formal Dinner-Bridge

A thoroughly enjoyable evening for a large guest group resulted last night at Santa Ana Country club, from invitations issued recently by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Liebig and Dr. and Mrs. James E. Paul, to dinner and bridge.

Both Mrs. Paul and Mrs. Liebig are famous for their success with flowers, so they had an almost unlimited assortment of beautiful blossoms from which to select those gracing the clubhouse and especially the two long tables arranged in the solarium for the dinner hour. Mrs. W. W. Armstrong also sent many blooms.

Flower Arrangement
Long, narrow containers on each table, glowing with the rainbow hues of the flowers, and the slim ivory tapers in various ornate holders in the arrangement of the brilliant candelabra brought the brilliant colors into harmony. Among flowers in the arrangement were grouped, a handsome opium bowl filled with Bauhinia Purpurea (orchid tree) excited special comment.

Artistic cards which had designated places at the dinner table also provided places for recording bridge scores. First and second high scores made by Mrs. Charles S. Kendall and Mrs. Howard Timmons, won prizes, and were duplicated by Mr. Keel and Earl Morrow, who received prizes in the men's division.

Gift Awards
At the same time, the hosts had planned a little "family observance" to Mr. and Mrs. Don Andrews, Dr. and Mrs. Cassius Paul and Mr. and Mrs. Felton Browning, presented special prizes. This showed appreciation of the assistance lent in various host duties of the evening, for which they were joined also by Mrs. C. O. Norton, who checked arrivals.

On the invitation list of Dr. and Mrs. Paul and Mr. and Mrs. Liebig were Messrs. and Mesdames Don Andrews, Paul Bailey, O. H. Barr, C. P. Boyer, Felton Browning, George S. Briggs, A. J. Cruickshank, C. V. Davis, J. E. Gowen, Philip Hatzfeld, J. J. Harrison, C. H. Hollis, Charles S. Kendall, Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. Irwin F. Landis, Dr. and Mrs. Melbourne Mabe; Dr. and Mrs. Frank Patterson, Dr. and Mrs. Cassius Paul, Messrs. and Mesdames Earl Morrow, Sam W. Nau, C. O. Norton, George Perkins, A. W. Rutan, W. D. Ranney, Parke Roper, Leonard Swales, Howard Timmons, R. G. Tutthill, James Tarpley, Theo. Winkler, Adam Zaiser; Mrs. Marguerite Borgmeyer and Mrs. J. B. Roberts.

Miss Maurine Dalton announced plans for the club's sports dance to be held June 5 at 9 p. m. in the Y. W. rooms.

Harmony Bridge Club

Mrs. John Bruns opened her home at 314 Coronado street, Balboa Beach, to members of Harmony Bridge club yesterday for covered-dish luncheon.

Each of the group provided a white elephant gift for exchange during afternoon card play. Mrs. Maude Swarthout, who scored high in contract bridge, and Mrs. Leon Lauderbach, high in auction, were given first choice of the array of interesting looking gifts.

Others present were Mesdames Carlyle Dennis, B. E. Dawson, Paul Cozad, Don Edwards, Elizabeth Gowdy, Max Gowdy, Virgie Holmes, Laura Kesemann, Glenn Lyman, C. E. Morse, C. A. Rouse, Alvin Rea, George Shippe, Forrest White, Augusta Whisenand, Walter Wright, Nellie Young, Ray H. Snyder.

Mrs. Rez and Mrs. Snyder will be co-hostesses at the next meeting, Tuesday, June 2 at 12:30 p. m., in the latter's home, 813 North Olive street.

Baptist Society Wins First Prize for Year Book

Issuing a year book declared to be outstanding in every way, Women's society of First Baptist church won highest honors in a contest conducted just prior to the recent Northern Baptist convention, it was learned today. Awarded first place for the year book entered in the national contest, the local society duplicated laurels won with last year's entry.

Because the society's book for last year won first prize, the judges report that they made most careful study of all entries, before making their decision in favor of the Santa Ana publication.

The report issued was as follows: "Of all books submitted in the contest, its content is such as to make it of widest use to churches everywhere. Even the humblest and smallest can find in it material which they can use. It adheres most fully and ably, through poems, hymns, Scripture selections and program procedure, to its theme. The secretary's report and financial statement being included form a set-up of activities and bookkeeping which will prove suggestive to prosperous and struggling churches alike. Also its final material entitled, 'Workers' and 'In Memoriam,' could be reproduced in simple, typed-sheet form for annual distribution to members of the poorer churches."

"So, for the second year in succession, your judges commend the fine mentality, hours of thought, and labor that have produced this outstanding year book, which we name for first place."

The prize will be missionary books valued at $3.00. It comes to the society due to excellent work on the part of Miss Ula Minter, president; Mrs. A. F. Hill, program chairman, and Mrs. J. P. Williams, year book editor.

In the past six years, the Santa Ana society has won three first awards; one second award, and an honorable mention for its year book, it was announced.

Piles All Gone

Without Salves or Cutting

Itching, bleeding, protruding piles go quickly, if you remove the cause. Bad blood circulation in the hemorrhoidal veins causes piles by making the affected parts weak, flabby and lifeless. Salves and cutting often fail because only an internal medicine can actually correct these conditions. Dr. J. S. Leonard's discovered a real internal Pile medicine. After a fine record of success with it in his own practice, he named it HEM-ROID. All druggists invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money back if not joyfully satisfied with the help one bottle gives.

THE TWYMITES

Story by HAL COCHRAN Drawn by GEORGE SCARBO

The old prospector soon was out of sight, and then there came a shout from Scouty: "Let's get started on our own big seat," cried he.

"If I could get help from all of you, I'm pretty sure that we can do a real good job. The work will be a lot of fun, to me."

"Well, first of all, let's figure out, by sitting in a row, about how wide the seat should be," exclaimed fair Goldy, with a smile. "You see, if we don't make it right, we will be in an awful

"Of course not," Windy snapped. "But I imagine we'll be sailing high, and there's no harm in playing safe. Now, what next must we do?"

Brave Coppy answered, "Call the bird to carry us. I know the word." "Well, go ahead and call," said Goldy. "It's up to you."

The lad cried out with all his might. A pelican came into sight, and settled near the Tinies. Then the bunch heard Scouty shout:

"My goodness, he looks rather small to fly away and take us all. However, we can climb aboard the seat and try him out."

Community Clubhouse Proposed For Mission City

PLAN TO SEEK FEDERAL FUNDS FOR BUILDING

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, May 20.—Plans for a community clubhouse to be built at an approximate cost of $15,000 and financed by federal funds, were outlined yesterday at a meeting of the Women's club by E. A. Nydegger, commander of the Capistrano post of the Legion, and Dr. Paul Esslinger.

Under the plan outlined to members of the Women's club, that organization would deed three lots it now owns to the county. The federal funds for the building program would be given as an outright grant through the American Legion, making the building, when completed a federal structure and owned by no local organization but designated as a community hall or memorial building.

Mrs. Carl Hankey, member of the building committee of the Women's club, has called a meeting of the membership for next Tuesday night in the Community church for the purpose of reaching a decision as to whether or not the club will contribute its property to the project.

Fred Richards, an architect of Pasadena, was introduced by the program chairman, Mrs. Russell Cook, and gave an interesting talk on Monterey architecture, describing in detail the method used in construction of the first colonial type of Monterey homes in California.

Mrs. Carl Romer was made chairman of ticket sales for the play, "You're Telling Me," which is to be given by the Community players as a benefit for the Women's club at the high school auditorium May 29.

Mrs. Aaron Buchheim, president of the club, introduced Mrs. Fred Richards, of Altadena; Mrs. David Ross, Hollywood; Mrs. Robbie Mahoney, Mrs. L. T. Hunter, and Mrs. Violet Leeming as the club visitors for the day.

Beach City Fire Chief Resigns Job

LAGUNA BEACH, May 20.—Peter J. ("Pete") Bushman, for over 10 years head of the volunteer fire department of Laguna Beach, has resigned as chief. In his letter of resignation, Chief Bushman stated that the rapid growth of Laguna Beach, with its added burdens of protection, made it impossible for him to spare the time necessary to properly handle the work of the department.

It was made clear in Bushman's resignation that absolutely no personal matters entered into the case. The resignation will be acted upon at a special meeting of the volunteer firemen, who elect their own chief, the city council having nothing to do with the election of ranking officer in the fire department. Coincidentally with his resignation, Chief Bushman led a turn-out of the engine and chemical trucks, occasioned by a blaze in South Coast alley.

TROPHIES FOR LAGUNA EVENTS GIVEN SCHOOL

LAGUNA BEACH, May 20.—George A. Portus, president of the Laguna Beach Chamber of Commerce, yesterday presented the principal, faculty and scholars of the high school with a set of handsome trophies, over which custodianship is to be maintained for the coming year, pending the various athletic contests scheduled for the annual field day.

In making the presentation, Portus expressed the hope that Laguna high would be successful in retaining the trophies in the face of keen competition between the county-wide high schools. The trophies include the Emerald Bay award for school taking most first prizes; the South Coast Improvement association trophy, donated by the South Coast News and the individual high point, inter-class swim and base batter prize. In addition, handsome medals are included, to be given to individuals winning the various events.

Principal Linton T. Simmons, accepting the trophies on behalf of the school, felicitated the chamber of commerce for its interest in scholastic athletics and pledged the enthusiastic aid of faculty and scholars in making the annual field day a success.

Intended to afford direct ingress to the station, the proposed destruction of the curb was vigorously opposed by the city council on the grounds that it would add an extra traffic hazard to pedestrians. Two clever tap dances were given by Virginia Smith, with June Massey playing the piano accompaniment. Miss Massey was at the piano as she and Lorraine Muzzall sang two numbers. Gordon Baker was master of ceremonies.

The GLAMOROUS ADVENTURE

CHAPTER I

THERE were dancing lights in Gail Everett's amber eyes as she walked lightly along Fifth avenue. It seemed almost impossible to believe that she had won the coveted John S. Larnie prize for costume design, and was, even now, on her way to the famous manufacturer's office.

Pausing for a moment in front of a window display, she opened her pocketbook and pulled out a letter. Yes, there it was—the invitation that had followed her winning of the prize. Once more she unfolded it and read, "If you should decide to come to New York, we shall do all we can to see that you get a good start."

Slipping the letter into its envelope and tucking it again into her handbag, she repeated the address of the famous silk manufacturer while she turned into E. 34th street.

Everything was new to Gail, for it was her first visit to New York since she had been a child. What a gay time she'd had then! Still she couldn't have been more than five when, one day, her father had taken her into his arms and told her that her beautiful mother would never come home again—that she'd gone away to be with the angels.

Gail had not been able to understand that. She had needed her mother. Of course there was old Martha, the housekeeper. Many a time Martha had stopped her work to listen to the child's questions, to try to answer them and to join, rather clumsily, in Gail's play. When she did this Martha would stop frequently, dabbing at her wrinkled face with a handkerchief.

Gail herself had been too young at her mother's death to miss her any length of time. And soon she was big enough to go to school. Then Martha had grown too old to do the housework and had gone to her cottage on Cape Cod. By the time Gail was in her teens she was traveling all over the country with her father, enjoying the carefree hours camping wherever he, an artist, wished to stop to paint.

Her education—there was no denying it—had been rather haphazard. Gail had gone to 13 schools in as many states. When she was 16 her father decided to go abroad and Gail was enrolled in a boarding school. She had been furious at first. Later, when she had met Miss Cranston, a friend of her mother's, she stilled her rebel heart. After all, the separation from her father was to be only for a few months. When vacation time arrived she'd be with him again.

Gail, waiting for the traffic lights to flash from green to red, reviewed all this briefly. The lights changed then and she joined the throng of men and women hurrying across the street. She was quite unimpressed of the fact that more than one person paused to cast speculative glances on the slender girl whose reddish gold curls formed a sunny aureole beneath her tight-fitting little hat.

The pavement on the opposite side of the street was in shadow. As Gail walked along, eagerly scanning the numbers, the brakes of a taxi screeched loudly while a woman at her elbow cried, "My, but that was a narrow shave!"

Gail looked around and saw the frightened face of a boy, with the hand of the man who had pulled him back from certain death still clutching his shoulder. The sight startled her. She thought of her father and his tragic end. He had reached New York—she still had the radiogram he had sent her as the ship approached the harbor—but as he taxied to Grand Central to catch the train for Hollywood Hall where she was waiting for him, there had been an accident.

Gail bit her lips. She must not think of that now, nor of the long, dreary days that followed as the awful realization came to her that she was completely alone. At last her bitter grieving was somewhat assuaged and she took up her school work again, only to

"Good morning. What can I do for you?"

"I'd like to see Mr. Larnie—Mr. John S. Larnie."

"Did you have an appointment with him?" The girl at the desk started to turn the pages of a book which lay open before her. "He's been called out of town unexpectedly."

"Not a definite one, but he invited me to call when I arrived in New York."

The other girl looked at Gail with appraising eyes. "Perhaps there's someone else you could speak to? What did you wish to see him about?"

For a moment Gail hesitated. Then she said, "I won his prize for costume design, and Mr. Larnie wrote and promised he would help me get a start if I decided to come to New York."

"Oh, how clever of you!" the girl exclaimed, yet Gail felt a note of insincerity in her words. She added, "I'll see what I can do for you," as she lifted the receiver from its cradle and asked for Mr. Held.

Gail watched eagerly. Surely in this magnificent office there must be someone who could help her. She glanced swiftly around the room. That must be someone connected with the firm who was talking to a young man who was closing a portfolio, Gail thought. Then her eyes rested once more on the girl at the information desk.

PLACING the receiver in its cradle, the girl said, "I'm sorry, Mr. Held is in conference." She paused for a split second and Gail felt certain that this was not the message she had received over the phone. She quickly added, "Perhaps it would be better if you would wait until Mr. Larnie returns."

"When will that be?" There was an anxious note in Gail's voice. New York without anyone to help her—how would she get a start? Then she remembered her prize money. Surely $500 would last for a long time even if she didn't get a job right away. She did not know how quickly money goes.

"Mr. Larnie's in Florida. He's not expected back for a couple of weeks. But if you'll let me have your name and address, I'll give it to his secretary and she will advise you when he can see you."

"Oh, thank you," Gail answered as the girl handed her a card. Her amber eyes were shadowed as she stepped into the elevator again and she walked along the entrance hall with lagging steps. Outside the building she glanced up and down the avenue. The traffic roared past her. All around were hurrying men and women. Everyone going somewhere, everyone knowing exactly what he or she was going to do except Gail herself and a tattered old man leaning against the building, glancing mutely from hungry, hopeless eyes at the endless stream of traffic passing by.

Gail sauntered toward the curb, still glancing about uncertainly. Then Derek Hargreaves, his portfolio under his arm and his hat perched at its usual jaunty angle, stepped toward her.

"Pardon me," he said, removing his hat, "but didn't I see you in John Larnie's office a few minutes ago?"

CITY OFFICIALS
PAY VISIT TO NEARBY CITIES

On a study tour arranged by City Judge J. G. Mitchell, Mayor Fred C. Rowland, City Clerk Ed Vegely, City Auditor Lloyd Banks, Assistant Police Chief Harry King and the judge left this morning for Pomona, San Bernardino and Riverside.

The local officials will meet officials of the three cities and study methods used in conducting city business there during the visits. At noon, the local men will be luncheon guests at San Bernardino and will visit Riverside on the return trip.

"I think it is a mighty good habit to practice," the judge said in speaking of the visits. "Much can be learned by a study of methods used by other cities in conducting their business and possibly we can find methods by which we can improve our own city."

Motorcycle Officer George Boyd hunted rattlesnakes yesterday in line of duty. Mrs. G. R. Neilson, 2381 Riverside drive, complained that a rattlesnake had taken complete possession of the back yard of her home. But the rattlesnake must have had a premonition of the danger or overheard the telephone conversation between Mrs. Neilson and the police for he had disappeared when the officer arrived a few minutes afterward. A thorough search of the neighborhood failed to uncover his hiding place.

Three speeders were assessed fines in City Judge J. G. Mitchell's court yesterday. They were Elmer Patterson, 1812 West Central, Newport Beach, $5; Ambrose A. When a report was filed with the sheriff's office last night by Orange police, declaring a woman had been busy for some time trying to throw herself in front of passing automobiles, an investigation led to the arrest of Martha Hansen, 53, of Anaheim, on a charge of being intoxicated on a county highway. She was found lying along West Chapman avenue, a half mile west of the county hospital and was taken to the hospital for treatment.

IN HIS "GULLIVER'S TRAVELS," JONATHAN SWIFT, MENTIONED THE TWO MOONS OF THE PLANET MARS, LONG BEFORE THEY WERE DISCOVERED.

SWIFT not only mentioned the two moons of Mars long before they were discovered, but said, "The innermost is distant from the center of the primary planet exactly three of his diameters, and the outermost five," which was surprisingly accurate.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 20.—(UP)—Stocks advanced fractionally to 2 points today without benefit of increased volume, while bonds made an irregular recovery featured by new highs in U. S. government issues. Wheat led a rise in grains, closing 1 to 2 1/2 c a bushel higher.

Oil stocks acted as a drag on the stock list until late in the day when they joined the rise. Before the rally, the group, including Continental, Socony - Vacuum, and Standard of California made new lows.

Crude oil production in the week ended May 15 crossed the 2,000,000 barrel mark for the first time in history. The big problem was the Rodessa field of Louisiana, which gained 3,000 barrels or more than enough to carry the production figure above 2,000,000 barrels. The field's significance lay in the high potential that might be exploited to the detriment of the oil industry.

The rally in the oil came with an announcement that Pelican Oil & Gasoline company had curtailed its production field output to 1,500,000 barrels daily quota of other wells.

Louisiana Oil preferred stock up 5 1/4 points to 2 1/4 in fairly active trading for this issue. Its 1936 low is 13. It touched a high of 34 1/2 a short time ago and then sagged.

INFLATION OR TAXES

In discussing investments with people a few years ago I found little interest in inflation. It was something-or-other common to European finance. Why should Mr. John Doe, on an American Main Street, be bothering his head about the theory of money? Surely American statesmen would not permit governmental acts leading toward inflation. Oh, no!

Now, thoughtful people concede that our money is in danger. More than that, they now ask how to adapt their problems to the trend towards inflation. Students of finance concede further; that the present administration is wilfully drifting towards inflation. They observe that most people seem to appreciate the KINDNESS of the New Deal in spending more than the government takes in.

The dangerous thing about inflation is the way it creeps on a nation. It's easy to spend money. Any person or government can find many worthwhile things to spend money on. It is difficult to raise the money to pay the bills. When spending is greater than the ability or the willingness to pay, trouble is not far ahead.

The second easy step into this trap of inflation is to defer the evil day by use of the debt structure. We are now doing that. It is so easy to make excuses and find a reason each time we resort to debt. Our credit is so good that it seems the easiest thing to do. Besides, perchance somebody else than we will pay for these things sometime in the future.

The third step is to get in a tight spot, financially. Then it is necessary to do something drastic. The devaluation of the dollar follows. This amounts to repudiation of part of the debt. Next comes the printing press, or its step-sister; the wholesale borrowing by the government through the forced sale of government bonds to banks. Government regulation of banks makes this possible.

Then comes a series of Government coercions of one kind or another. Each country does it a little differently and excuses itself as it goes along. The results are the same. I. O. U.'s lose more and more of their value. Life insurance policies, mortgages, bank deposits and even government promises to pay such as Post Office Savings Banks, Baby Bonds, Liberty Bonds, Paper Money—go down in real value. Money becomes worthless. Those who have made money and saved are dragged down by those who have not; and the resulting demoralization of business and living standards is realized.

To some of us, this drift to the Niagara of money collapse is a real fear. There is approximately $10,000,000,000 on deposit lying in banks not working; earning practically no interest. We know that the owners of that money are afraid. Business never has and never will respond to threats. Even breathing spells temporarily extended by a government that business does not trust will do no good. This is why we want an administration in Washington that business likes; that will attract money into business; that will get the unemployed back into private industry. The world wide depression is fading from most countries. Proper encouragement to business and a balanced budget will hasten our recovery.

I hope that those people, who do not care if the government reduces its expenditures and balances its budget, will take the time to go to the Public Library and read a little history about European inflation. Find out what governmental acts lead to it. Then they will be ready for this conclusion.

Somebody must pay taxes or we will have worse to pay. Each proposed tax raises the cry. Unfair! Let the other fellow pay. But when a government spends one-third of the national income, ALL MUST PAY. No person or classification of people can be exempt. To me, this means that the Sales Tax must stay and be broadened in its application. The Real Estate Tax and Inheritance Tax also. All must stay, till private business and new industries absorb the unemployed and the budget is more than balanced.

THE GUFFEY BILL AND WAGES

The purpose, of course, of the Guffey Bill was to attempt to regulate and raise wages of coal miners. It seems that the mercenary Congressmen will never learn that wages cannot be raised by law. It is becoming evident that these mercenary Congressmen will never learn that the more we try to artificially raise wages, the lower real wages will surely become.

This is true because every worker produces his own wealth. When he does not produce enough wealth to be paid the food, shelter and indulgences his employer had advanced to him, plus reward for the employer abstaining from using the wealth himself, then the employer ceases to trade his savings—(food, shelter and indulgences)—to the worker for the new wealth the employee produces. As a consequence of this unemployment, there then become great numbers of unemployed and they have to be supported from the new wealth created by other employees or from the wealth that had formerly been produced by workers. This, consequently, either reduces the actual wages of the worker or reduces the capital which is used in increasing production. In either case, the total production is reduced resulting in lower real wages of all the workers.

It seems we still believe in miracles and try to do over and over again something that has never been done in all history and every time it is tried, instead of helping the working class, it always results in lowering their standard of living as a whole. As we have repeatedly said, Mill explained this many years ago in a trite statement: "Wages depend then on the proportion between the number of the laboring population, and the capital or other funds devoted to the purchase of labor. . . . And every scheme for their benefit, which does not proceed on this as its foundation, is, for all permanent purposes, a delusion."

The Guffey Bill was simply a delusion, of trying to pay artificial wages to a certain group of people at the expense of the consumer—other workers. It was a violation of the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution, which took away from other workers their right to mine coal on other conditions than arbitrarily set forth by the Miners' Union. The clause in the amendment referred to is, "nor be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law." Certainly every worker has a right to work at any job in the United States that will pay him the highest possible reward and no worker, or group of workers, have any special privilege to receive more for doing a job than other workers are willing and able to do the same job for. When we violate this law, we are bound to cause unemployment and reduce the sum total of wages and the standard of living of all the people. It might seem cruel and hard hearted but, in the long run, it is humane and kind.

FORGOT THE WARNING

In Landon's address to the high school graduating class at Attica, Kansas, he made one statement that certainly is true.

The trouble is that the great mass of people do not interpret it literally. The statement referred to was: "Many persons in this country too long to forget the warning that civic virtue can never flourish in a generation that thinks of itself."

Any generation that believes it is right to tax a man because he adds to the national wealth is certainly thinking of itself. It disregards the fact that it is eating up the capital to pay government expenses in the current year so that the consumers may have more to consume in the present year. They do this with total disregard to future generations. The $6,000,000, that the United States government is spending this current fiscal year, more than it takes in, is a natural sequence of starting twenty years ago to think only of themselves for the moment. They have so reduced the production of wealth that there is not now sufficient wealth to produce enough to pay the workers what they are entitled to expect under good government.

Let it be remembered that wealth does not include bank deposits, as bank deposits are not wealth, but only bookkeeping entries and never directly create any wealth. The real wealth of the nation is not nearly large enough to produce the standard of living that all of us would like to enjoy. We are now reaping the results of our past folly, started back in 1913, of thinking only of itself.

WHALES RECALL GLORY OF HISTORIC PAST

The structure of American history is built of a great many unlikely blocks, and you can find romantic reminders of it in the most unexpected places.

For instance: a one-sentence dispatch from Honolulu the other day revealed that great schools of whales have been seen again in Hawaiian waters for the first time in several generations. And while it is hard to think of anything less exciting or timely than the reappearance of whales in the mid-Pacific, the little item does hold up a mirror to one of the most romantic and colorful phases of our national story.

If the eagle is our national bird, the whale ought to be our national fish. (Oh, sure, a whale isn't really a fish, but let that pass.) It was the whale that helped turn our New Englanders into seafarers; the whale that caused exploration of the Pacific; the whale that made world travelers out of stay-at-home Americans, and introduced our flag into out-of-the-way ports in every corner of the earth.

Back in the take-it-easy days, before people found out what petroleum was good for, the whale was the beastie that lighted our lamps. Whales are fat, and from their fat oil can be made; and the whalers of New England went to every sea on the globe, staging the most thrilling combination of hunting and fishing party the world ever saw, to meet this need.

It was these whalers who charted the myriad unknown islands of the Pacific. They paved the way for missionaries, traders, and the agents of empire in far-off and romantic lands.

They lighted our lamps, provided the wherewithal for the corsets which graced the figures of American womanhood, brought in the oil that lubricated our watches, and helped provide New England with the capital that financed development of the west.

Their industry is as dead as a doornail, now, in such centers as New Bedford and Nantucket. The strange skill and daring that they developed for their unusual calling has vanished from the earth.

The sturdy, smelly little ships in which they roamed the seven seas have been broken up, or cut down into coal barges, and the commodity in which they dealt now has few uses.

But the memory of these tough sea rovers is worth keeping alive. A good share of American history—including some of its most exciting chapters—is bound up with the story of the whalers.

And in case you aren't familiar with it, this commonplace little dispatch from Honolulu might give you a good excuse to go to the library and read up on it. You'll find the story very much worth the trouble.

'You Remember Me—I Made You Dictator'

Day By Day In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1935)

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The devastating effect upon the American constitutional system of a congress that abdicates its legislative function by "passing the buck," so to speak, to the supreme court was never more dramatically illustrated than in the struggle which the nine justices had with the Guffey act.

The headlines may say it was a 6 to 3 decision, but actually a careful study of the three opinions filed will reveal that the differences were due to the failure of congress to write a clear-cut statute and to distinguish between the various provisions of the law which was enacted last year in defiance of the Schechter case.

Urged on by President Roosevelt, who told congress to pass the Guffey law irrespective of whatever "reasonable doubts" the members might have as to constitutionality, the result was such a hodge-podge that the supreme court tried conscientiously to separate the valid from the invalid sections.

Five justices—Sutherland, McReynolds, Van Devanter, Butler and Roberts—said it couldn't be done, that the whole statute was so tied together by its valid and invalid provisions that they considered the act unconstitutional in its entirety, but reserved the right to consider any new legislation on its merits.

The other four justices—Hughes, Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo—said the act was "separable" and that it wasn't necessary to pass on the labor or wage sections or the tax sections at this time if the power to regulate marketing was upheld, which, of course, it wasn't by the five justices in the majority opinion.

There were six votes for outright condemnation of all the provisions of the law except marketing, and on this latter Mr. Hughes dissented. But it is not proper to say there were only six votes because the three other justices held it unnecessary to pass judgment on the labor provisions at all.

Out of the resultant situation, the following effects may be looked for:

1. The labor provisions will be abandoned and the Wagner Labor Relations law seems headed for the discard, too, because enough was said in the opinion to indicate that at least six justices think it not to be the province of the federal government to regulate employer-employee relations in manufacturing or production.

2. The marketing provisions will be revived. Transactions in interstate commerce and even price-fixing may be upheld where articles affected with a public interest move in interstate commerce, but it is emphasized by the chief justice that the constitutional requirement that rates must not be confederatory and other constitutional inhibitions will have to be observed whenever a specific case arises to test the federal power.

3. Congress will not try at this session to reenact any substitute for the Guffey law. Even if it tried, the chances would be against passage because the American Federation of Labor is in a life and death struggle with John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers when the original measure went through congress, the A. F. of L. helped Mr. Lewis. It is not disposed to throw its strength to him now.

4. Chief Justice Hughes pointed the way to the regulation of interstate commerce in respect to marketing of coal. The supreme court showed its inclination toward regional price arrangements in the famous Appalachian case, decided in 1932, so the Hughes opinion must be read now as a second chapter in the history of legal opinions bearing on unfair and ruinous competition in marketing transactions that cross state lines, especially where a natural resource like coal is involved.

Certainly, May 18 will be known as an eventful day in the chronicles of the supreme court because it reaffirmed so many of the principles of the Schechter case, handed down just a year ago. But on the same day there was handed down in the circuit court of appeals of the District of Columbia an equally important opinion which could not have been delivered but for the basic doctrines enunciated in the Schechter NRA case.

This was the case in which the rural resettlement administration of Dr. Tugwell was held invalid. But the opinion goes further. It questions the right of congress to delegate to the executive the spending of money for any unconstitutional purpose; that is, for some purpose not within the federal government's rights. Housing for public use is not regarded as a public purpose.

Since the supreme court of the United States will finish its present term before June 1, the latest case from the court of appeals of the district will hardly be argued before next autumn. Meanwhile, the opinion furnishes an interesting corroboration of the viewpoint of those in congress who have insisted in ear-marking appropriations and specifying just for what ends the public moneys should be spent.

There is another epochal development in the case. A municipal government was admitted to have the right to sue the federal government to restrain the latter from draining its local tax revenues. A citizen hitherto could not make such a suit effective as the supreme court has held that no one citizen could show a direct interest sufficient to entertain his plea. But now apparently a municipal government can enter a plea in the District of Columbia courts against federal officials to prevent the federal government from taking away its tax resources. This is of transcendent importance and may turn out to be the missing link in constitutional history as it relates to the power to prevent extravagance by the federal government or to the check against a hitherto unlimited right to tax anything and everything or to grant tax exemptions in a manner that adversely affects the municipalities and its revenue-getting opportunities.

Little Renny's Note Book

Pop was smoking and thinking in his private chair and ma said, Stone and Stone have the most attractive add in today's paper, Willium.

I'm in no position to be attracted by any joolry store advertisement, I don't care if it's written in the best stile since Shakespeare, pop said, and ma said, That's just the very general attitude that they try to set at rest in this advertisement, that's what makes it so clever. Lots of people have the impression that Stone and Stone is only for the rich and prosperous, and they go on to explain that although it's true that the largest purse has no terrors for them, it's also true that they welcome the smallest purses just as cordially, ma said.

Yes, no doubt their uniformed attendant will open the door for you practically free of charge, pop said, and ma said, And then the advertisement goes on to explain that they have all sorts of inexpensive little trinkets and gadgets all the way down to a package of flints for a cigar lighter for 20 cents. Didn't I hear you say you've run out of flints, Willium? she said.

Yes I have, as a matter of fact, pop said, and ma said, That's what I want, so I sailed gaily into Stone and Stone's this afternoon for the thrill of actually buying something in there, even if it only cost 20 cents. And the first thing I saw was a real bargain. A little silver tray for only 22 dollars and really worth 50 and axually repiced from 40. Can you imagine how I snapped it up? she said.

Only too well, pop said. Well at least give me my flints, he said, and ma said, Well do you know, Willium, I completely forgot to buy the flints, I'll go back tomorrow.

Only pop made her promise not to, saying he was going passed the place himself.

In the Long Ago

From The Register Files
25 Years Ago Today

This afternoon at 2:30, the big whoop-hooray baseball game between the courthouse officials and lawyers took place at Lincoln park on French street north of Washington avenue. Captain Joe Burke of the courthouse gang, and Captain Horatio Forgy of the plaintiffs-defendant crowd and their men were on hand promptly. The courthouse team appeared in suits borrowed from the county jail. The lawyers wore such garments as they desired but derby hats were obligatory. Two ministers, the Rev. H. E. Murkett and the Rev. Paul Wright, umpired, and the lawyers piled up 26 runs against 14 by the courthouse gang.

Through a 300 foot break above the million dollar dam just completed, flood waters of the Colorado river are pouring today, menacing the entire Imperial Valley. The river is still rising and fears are entertained that damage that accompanied the filling of the Salton Sea five years ago, will be repeated.

UNJUST ACCUSATIONS

The telephone rang and Frank's mother answered it. When she returned to the living room she said, "Frank, Mrs. White says you have her Tommy's pencil box. How did that happen?"

"But I haven't his pencil box. I've told him that a dozen times, and he won't believe me. See, my name is in mine."

"Well, I don't know what to do. I don't want trouble with the neighbors about a pencil box that costs 10 cents. Let him have that one and I'll get you another, if that will settle the matter."

"But that would not do. He wouldn't take it. He says it is not his and that I took his and have to give it back. I never took his. How can I give it back?"

Again the telephone rang and again there was talk about stealing, about making a complaint to the principal and the teacher, about being has associates for children, and mother turned to father, "You see what you can do. I've done my best and it is useless."

Father put on his coat and hat and went out. He went to the five and ten and bought another pencil box. He went to the neighbor and pleasantly offered it instead of the lost one. "I don't want a new box. I'm only asking for what is right. I want my child's pencil box. That's all."

"We have done all we could to satisfy you," said father. "Frank never had your son's pencil box, but to keep the peace we tried to replace it. Now we are through. I don't want to hear another word about the matter. Don't ring our telephone about this thing again. Enough is enough."

Next day bright and early the outraged mother went to the school to complain about Frank as a stealing rascal who took pencil boxes from good boys like her. The teacher listened in amazement. By and by, at a favorable pause, she said, "What kind of a box was it?"

"Just an ordinary 10-cent box, black with some gilt lines on it."

"Was his name on it?"

"No. I thought the children of this neighborhood were honest enough to respect each other's things without writing their names all over them."

"But it might be lost?"

"O no. Taken is the word."

"Was it a box like this?"

"That looks like it. It might be. One just like that."

"This one was found in the yard two weeks ago. It is listed among the found things down in the yard. Will you ask your boy if it is his?"

And it was. Over such things Neighbors quarrel. One is over-sure and the other is placed at a disadvantage. Children are at best uncertain in their behavior, in their stories. It is always better to give them the benefit of the doubt; be patient; take for granted that they all try to be decent, and wait before deciding that one of them is right and the other wrong. The chances are that they are both in need of a caution.

Page Mr. Ripley. Having been born in one of the states of the Union, I have always prided myself on being an American citizen, my forefathers dating back to the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

However, I find that according to rules and regulations now in force, I am not an American citizen.

Let me explain: Although I have lived in California for more than 40 years, and in Orange county for more or less than 20 of them, raised a family, most of whom were educated in the schools of this county, I do not belong here.

Some two years ago I was compelled by lung trouble to seek a higher altitude for awhile and so have spent the last two years in the mountains in the northern part of the state.

Returning to this county a short time ago I find I have lost my residence.

One of my boys made application for work with the WPA and one of the investigators came to see me and told me I did not belong in this county, I had lost my residence by being out of the county for so long.

Not having established a residence in any other county it naturally follows that I do not belong in the state.

I cannot claim residence in any other state, therefore I am not a resident of the United States.

I should, I suppose be deported along with the other aliens but I do not belong to another country, I doubt very much whether any other country would have me. I think, therefore, that I am justified in claiming to be a little more than "The Man Without a Country" I don't even belong on earth. I am not sure about the moon.

Since the close of the Civil war the republican party has had control of the national government 56 years, and the Democratic party 20 years. In a sense they have been and are the nation's stewards. The people have asked for an accounting of their stewardship and this is what we find: Twelve millions of unemployed. Ten or more million families on the verge of starvation. Twenty millions of children undernourished. Crime on the increase with prisons overcrowded. Almshouses filled to overflowing. College-bred men unable to find employment along the lines for which they have been trained. This is a terrible indictment, a shameful record but true. There can be no excuse offered for this condition that will not insult the intelligence of the American people. Such a record in private business would call for instant dismissal and disgrace. Why should it be tolerated in public life? The truth is that the major political parties have degenerated into a scramble for the emoluments of office. The nation's welfare has been pushed aside to become the prey of financial sharks and political crooks. They fight viciously for political control but have not the ability to formulate an industrial policy that will lift the nation from the depths of distress into which it has sunk. Buying power placed in the hands of the people through industrial activities is the keynote to prosperity but these morons spend their time arguing whether the dole shall be distributed through the state or direct from the national government. They vote to spend the taxpayers' money to build new prisons but make no intelligent effort to reduce crime. They spend billions yearly to punish criminals but refuse a like amount to build factories that will give employment to the idle and prevent American citizens from drifting into crime.

The Frazier-Lemke bill would have brought relief to thousands of farmers who are in danger of losing their life savings. At first it seemed to have a chance to pass the house when some big bull yelled inflation and it was immediately strangled by the wolves of Wall Street aided and abetted by the jackals that follow in their wake.

These same jackals will go home and boast of how they slew the nation's enemy number one, INFLATION.

Is there no remedy for the class of legislation that is being inflicted upon the nation? No hope that in a land of bountiful resources there shall be an abundance for all, or must American citizens forever go cringing to their stewards for a pittance to keep starvation from their door in stead of standing as peers of a great nation? Must they kneel and supplicants to those who have usurped the power of all of the people? If so low can this nation hope to survive?

Yes there is a remedy that can be applied before the idea of November. If the American people wish to recover their self respect and again become the masters of their own destiny they should drive from public life these leaders who have brought wreck and ruin to the nation and in their place send men to congress who will work solely for the nation's welfare.

If you have not the courage to do this, then kneel and cringe, take your dose and kiss the hand of your masters.

The man in New York who jumped from a street car and bounced three feet into the air must have had on a spring suit.

The small town is where the people know there are a lot of post-cards in the mail when the post-man is slow in getting around.

Conditions are getting worse and worse. A man on relief says he hasn't saved enough money for a spade and it's almost time for digging fishworms.

"Every time you draw a breath, the government spends $712." Someone has figured out. And those who have been holding theirs for so long know it's spent, anyway.

The old timer is the fellow who can remember when people spoke seriously of controlled government spending.
